Rail Embargo Due To Strike Takes Effect

Pre-Christmas Curb On Parcel Post Limits Size Of Packages

COAL RESTRICTIONS WILL BE TIGHTENED

John Small Predicts Some People Will Be "Cold Within A Week"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (Friday) (AP) — A general embargo on railroad freight and express, along with pre-Christmas curbs on parcel post, went into effect in the eastern time zone at 12:01 a. m. (E. S. T.) today.

The coal-saving measures become effective at 12:01 a. m. successively in all time zones.

Thus they went into effect in the East an hour earlier than in the Central Time zone, two hours ahead of the Mountain region, and three hours ahead of the Pacific coast.

When the full effect is felt, thousands are expected to be made idle, many railroads already having announced reductions in their forces.

New Restrictions Seen

Civilian Production Chief John D. Small forecast last night that even more stringent controls over the use of coal will be issued "within a few days." Declaring that the coal strike is biting rapidly into the nation's fuel, he predicted that some people will be "cold within a week."

Further, the Solid Fuels Administration proposed that no coal be burned in places of amusements, schools or other buildings where this would not endanger health.

One of the new orders, Small said, will make available for essential users the stocks of coal at plants already shut down.

Other orders, he continued, will tighten restrictions which brought a dimout more severe than during the war for 21 states and the District of Columbia on November 25. The area included the states in the north and eastern parts of the country.

Small did not disclose the nature of other new restrictions, but said they will be of "co-operative or permissive" nature and that state authorities will be called upon to help enforce them.

Situation Is Outlined

The situation already was as follows:

Mail—From now on parcel post, except for vital food and medicine, will be limited to five pounds. Packages can not be more than 18 inches long nor more than 60 inches in length and girth combined. There will be no overseas parcel service except to servicemen who send home a written request.

Rail freight and express — The trains may now carry only food, fuel livestock, poultry, medicines, news publications, newsprint, printing ink, products needed for health purposes and a few other commodities deemed essential.

Buildings — Deputy Solid Fuels Administrator Dan H. Wheeler said the coal situation "clearly calls for such action" as eliminating "the use of solid fuels in places of amusements, such as theaters, bowling alleys, night clubs, educational institutions such as libraries, museums and schools, and in other buildings, public or private, where it could be done without endangering the health of the community."

Youth Admits Killing Indiana State Trooper

SHELBYVILLE, Ind., Dec. 5 (AP) — State Trooper Herbert Smith, 29, was shot and killed near here today, and Capt. Robert O'Neal, of the state police, said tonight that William Francis Price, 17, Evansville, Ind., has signed a statement admitting the shooting.

O'Neal said Price said he shot Smith after the trooper arrested him and three companions for a routine traffic violation on State Road 9 north of here.

Baruch Urges Russia To Approve American Atomic Control Plan

San Francisco Not Acceptable To USSR As U.N. Headquarters

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Dec. 5. (AP)—Russia stated flatly tonight that it would not accept San Francisco as a permanent headquarters for the United Nations. A strong supporter of New York City, the Soviet said it was willing however, to agree to Philadelphia.

Georgi Saksin, Soviet delegate, attacked the United States delegation for "attempting to present a proposal (San Francisco) which in no way satisfies more than five of the delegations," and told the 54-nation headquarters committee:

"The American delegation is insisting and is attempting to drag certain delegations to its side. But if it is experimenting in marshalling votes, maneuvering for votes which I witnessed at the Paris conference, the Soviet and U. S. S. R. delegations, which respect its name, will not go to San Francisco."

"Time Has Come For Action," U.N. Commission Told; U. S. Welcomes Soviet Concessions

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Dec. 5 (AP)—Bernard M. Baruch, declaring emphatically that the "time has come for action," appealed directly to Soviet Russia tonight to approve the United States plan for harnessing the atom for peace.

Speaking at one of the most important meeting yet held by the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, Baruch, as the United States representative, urged the commission—including Russian—to adopt the American plan as its basic recommendation for controlling atomic energy.

Baruch thus lost no time in acting on major Russian concessions which were clearly enunciated, after some delay, only yesterday by Vyacheslav M. Molotov, Russian Foreign Minister, to the United Nations Political Committee.

U. S. Stands On "Basic Principles"

Saying that the United States welcomed the support of those countries which have already indicated their acceptance of the United States plan, Baruch added:

"We seek especially the participation of the Soviet Union. We welcome the recent authoritative statements of its highest representatives. From these, we are justified in concluding that it no longer regards the original American proposals unacceptable, as a whole or in their separate parts, as its member of this body stated at an earlier meeting.

"I repeat—we welcome co-operation but we stand upon our basic principles even if we stand alone. . . The time for action is here."

He said that if the nations can control the atomic weapon, they can go on from there to control other instruments of mass destruction.

Treaty Elements Listed

Baruch said these three elements were inherent in any treaty that is to be written:

"1. The erection of an international authority which shall effectively prevent the manufacture and use of atomic bombs for war purposes, and which shall develop the use of atomic energy for social gain.

"2. The right of free and full international inspection in support of these purposes (Russia now has approved that idea).

"3. The definite agreement that once a treaty becomes effective providing for deterrents against offenses and punishments for offenders, there can be no veto to protect wilful violators, or to hamper the operations of the international authority."

These elements also were contained in the resolution Baruch read to the commission. He did not ask for a vote now but submitted the proposal for study.

War Department Report Asks Czar For Vets' Affairs

Col. Winthrop Rockefeller Finds "Disillusionment Rampant"

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP) — A new top federal co-ordinator for veterans affairs with "authority to cut red tape and act" was urged in a War Department report released tonight by Secretary Patterson.

The report was submitted by Lt. Col. Winthrop Rockefeller, grandson of the late John D. Rockefeller. In a six-month survey for the War Secretary, Col. Rockefeller found that among the nearly 14,000,000 war veterans "disillusionment is rampant, and unemployment and under-employment has reached distressing proportions."

The report was submitted July 18. There was no explanation why it was not released sooner.

"Drastic Action" Needed

Declaring that prompt, "drastic action" was needed, Rockefeller proposed also creation of a citizens' group "to conduct a far-reaching employment drive designed to correct injustices and hardships that have been the lot of far too many deserving men."

This group, he said, should "be so fearless that there will no longer be an excuse for those able-bodied veterans whose lack of self-respect would permit them to ride the bandwagon indefinitely, to continue living off the public."

A third major recommendation was to amend certain administrative portions of the GI Bill of Rights "which currently does not provide for either effective or efficient operation."

"Confusion" Is Cited

Rockefeller, 33, whose brother Nelson is a former assistant secretary of state, advised that the lack of a postwar "master plan" for coping with veterans' problems had resulted in "confusion" both in the federal government and local communities.

He proposed appointment of a czar of veterans affairs to co-ordinate the work of 15 or more federal agencies which he said currently were concerned with veterans' affairs.

The Veterans' Administration, Rockefeller said, has done a "spectacular" job and he refrained from criticizing Gen. Omar N. Bradley, the Veterans' Administrator.

Sen. Bilbo Defends Campaign Tactics

JACKSON, Miss., Dec. 5 (AP)—Sen. Theodore G. Bilbo, of Mississippi, stood pat on his advocacy of "white supremacy and white control" but denied flatly to investigating senators today that he had advocated violence or illegal acts against negroes during his primary campaign.

The unruffled Senator, his diamond horseshoe stickpin sparkling in the glare of camera flashes and newsreel floodlights, slipped into his stump speaking manner as he reviewed the campaign last summer in which he was nominated for a third term in the Senate.

He declared that when he said organizers should be "ridden out of town on a rail" and when "I suggested taking some tar and feathers along and not forgetting a match," he was talking about CIO men trying to organize negroes—not about the negroes themselves.

Bilbo told the Senate committee, which came to Jackson to look into a petition seeking to have the Senator refused his seat, that he had violated no laws when he asserted negroes should be kept from voting in the primary. He complained that newspapers misquoted him by omitting the phrase "by any lawful means." Mississippi negroes are Republicans, Bilbo asserted, and therefore ineligible to vote in Democratic primaries.

Four Killed In Two Palestine Explosions

JERUSALEM, Dec. 5 (AP) — Four persons were killed and more than a score injured in two explosions in Palestine today.

A civilian truck was blown up in the Street of Prophets near Jerusalem's center, killing two persons and injuring one, a government source announced.

Subsequently a British constable was wounded by an outbreak of rifle fire in the Malineh Yehudah quarter, and hand grenades were thrown at Arab legionnaires in the Rehavia quarter without causing casualties.

Earlier an explosion wrecked an army office at the closely guarded Sarafand military camp, killing a British officer and a serviceman of other rank.

DISSATISFIED—Idle due to the coal situation, three former Marines and coal miners (left to right), Harold Gregory, 26; his brother, Kenneth, 22, and a cousin, Edgar Gregory, 22, Shinnston, W. Va., enlisted in the Army. They were processed by Recruiting Sgt. Robert R. Gibson (right) at Fort Hayes.

Maryland Legislature Will Convene In Special Session Late This Year

Director General Of Pan-American Union Killed By Car

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. (AP) —Dr. Leo S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American Union, was killed apparently instantly tonight when struck by an automobile as he was crossing the street in front of the Bolivian Embassy.

Police said Dr. Rowe was hit as he was crossing Massachusetts avenue and had evidently darted across the street to attend a reception at the Embassy, 3012 Massachusetts ave.

The automobile was driven by Cpl. Elmer I. Klavon, a member of the Bolling Field Army Motor Pool.

Truman Sets Up Civil Rights Group

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. (AP)—President Truman, condemning organized groups which fan "hatred and intolerance" that cause mob violence, tonight set up a Civil Rights Committee to combat them. It was directed to study and recommend new civil rights legislation and other measures to protect "all parts of our population."

In an executive order, the President declared that the action of those who take the law into their own hands "gravely threatens our form of government."

He added in a statement that "in some places, from time to time, the local enforcement of law and order has broken down."

As chairman, the president named Charles E. Wilson, president of the General Electric Company and former executive vice chairman of the old War Production Board.

The President said the Federal government is hampered by inadequate civil rights law. He added that they should be expanded and improved to provide the Justice Department "with the tools to do the job."

$10 Added To Fines Against UMW, Lewis

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers now are exactly $3,510,010 in the red with the government.

The extra $10 was added today when one of Lewis' lawyers, James A. Glenn, forgot to pay the required fee in filing notice of appeal from the $3,510,000 contempt fines.

The deputy court clerk who received the papers forgot to ask for it.

Later, when he remembered, he told reporters he would send the union a bill.

O'Conor Will Call Meeting To Consider Appropriating Funds For Salaries, Institutions

BALTIMORE, Dec. 5 (AP) — The Maryland General Assembly will convene in special session late this month to consider appropriating an estimated $3,500,000 — $5,000,000 in additional funds necessary to continue salary increases and maintain state institutions through the fiscal year ending next June 30.

Gov. O'Conor announced late today he would call the session after he had been told at an emergency meeting of the Board of Public Works that the incoming 1947 Legislature would not have the authority to pass a special appropriations measure until after the biennial budget had been acted on.

Institutions' Cash Running Low

Members of the board said there was grave danger that some of the state's institutions would run out of the cash necessary to buy food, clothing, fuel and other supplies by February and there would be no legal method of supplying the funds until after the budget bill was passed, except through action at a special session before the first of the year.

In attendance at the meeting were Governor-elect Lane, Attorney General-elect Hall Hammond and the members of the board—State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, Deputy Comptroller Joseph O'C. McCusker, State Treasurer Hooper S. Miles, and the director of budget and procurement, Walter N. Kirkman.

All echoed the statement of Miles that "I believe a special session is the closest cut and best method of handling this situation."

One-Day Session Predicted

Kirkman said an additional $1,700,000 would be needed to continue salary increases granted September, that an additional $1,500,000—$2,000,000 was necessary to maintain state institutions through the fiscal year. He said that various state departments had put in requests for approximately $1,300,000 in supplementary funds.

Those in attendance predicted the special session would be a one-day affair, and said that the necessary appropriations bill could be passed under suspension of the rules.

The Governor said he would set a definite date for the session as soon as he had conferred with leading members of the General Assembly. It will be a "lame duck" session and most of the solons will not be back when the 1947 Legislature convenes January 1.

Colorado Miners Return

DURANGO, Colo., Dec. 5 (AP)—Operators of six of the leading coal mines in this area reported today that union miners who walked out 15 days ago, returned to work en masse today. The mines, all small ones, reported approximately 40 workers back in the pits.

Molotov Scores In Long Battle Over Reparations

Big 4 Reach Decision; Bulgaria's Payments Cut, Italy's Boosted

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov finally won tonight — with the reluctant agreement of Secretary of State Byrnes — his long fight to slash Bulgarian reparations and increase Italian reparations payments.

A final decision on the reparations issue was reached in the Big Four Foreign Ministers Council along with cleanup agreements, involving several concessions by Molotov, on outstanding issues in the Axis satellite peace treaties.

Progress was so great in tonight's session, diplomats present reported, that it seemed certain the treaties would be finally agreed upon by Saturday and a start made, probably Monday, on discussions of a final peace settlement for Germany.

The final decision on reparations means that Italy will have to pay a total of $360,000,000, which is $35,000,000 more than was recommended by the Paris peace conference last fall. Bulgaria will have to pay a total of $70,000,000, or $55,000,000 less than the Paris conference recommended.

Italy's total is divided: $100,000,000 to Russia, $125,000,000 to Yugoslavia, $105,000,000 to Greece, $25,000,000 to Ethiopia and $5,000,000 to Albania.

Bulgaria pays $25,000,000 to Yugoslavia and $45,000,000 to Greece. Thus Yugoslavia and Greece each will collect a total of $150,000,000.

Molotov scored two points by obtaining the reduction in Bulgarian reparations at the expense of Italy and by winning the payment for Albania. He lost his demand that Albania should receive a total of $10,000,000 and that Bulgaria's maximum payment should be held to $60,000,000.

France's Party Chiefs Seek To Resolve Crisis

PARIS, Dec. 5 (AP)—National Assembly President Vincent Auriol summoned all France's party chiefs to confer tonight in an attempt to resolve a thus far insoluble government crisis, after a day marked by futile balloting in which MRP Leader Georges Bidault failed to muster enough votes for election as interim premier-president.

Bidault, receiving only the ballots of the MRP (Popular Republican Movement) and the Rightist parties, polled only 240 votes in the newly-elected National Assembly—70 less than necessary for an absolute majority and 11 less than received by Communist Maurice Thorez, yesterday when he, too, failed of election.

Russian-Finnish Pact

LONDON, Friday, Dec. 6 (AP)—A Russian-Finnish trade agreement for two years replacing the former short term agreement for the mutual delivery of goods was signed in Moscow yesterday, the Moscow radio said today.

Sees Dimout Extended

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—The "dimout" will be extended to all Southeastern states unless the coal strike is settled before Monday, Edward Falck, administrator of the emergency order, said tonight.

Missing Trio Found; Co-ed Dead

BOULDER, Colo., Dec. 5 (AP) — A University of Colorado co-ed was found dead and two men students were found seriously injured late today west of Brainerd Lake along the snow-covered Continental Divide where they had been missing since Tuesday.

Sheriff Arthur Everson said Hazel Jeannette Martin, 27, New Providence, Iowa, was dead; David Waddington, 22, Westcliffe, Colo., had a broken arm and collarbone, and Deforrest W. Meehleib, 20, Peoria, Ill., was half frozen and semi-conscious with a broken leg.

Ambulances were dispatched to the rugged mountain country to return the girl's body and the injured students to Boulder.

Searchers on dogsleds, snowshoes and skis fought their way along the 13,000-foot peaks of the Rockies today to find the students who had been missing since they left a mountain camp to climb a nearby peak, carrying only a light lunch in addition to their ski equipment.

A team of nine sled dogs and equipment was flown in a C-47 transport plane from the Army's K-9 training center at Fort Robinson, Nebr., to join another team of seven sled dogs here today.

Other searchers operated out of the camp at Brainerd Lake where the missing trio left early Tuesday morning to climb either 13,406-foot Navajo peak or nearby Apache of slightly less altitude.

Republicans Must Work To Head Off "Truman Depression," Martin Says

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—A Republican National Committee happy over the party's recent election victory but sobered by newly-won responsibilities heard Rep. Martin, of Massachusetts, assert tonight that "it may not be easy to stave off a Truman depression, but it must be done."

Martin, speaker-to-be in the new House controlled by Republicans, spoke at a dinner ending a one-day meeting of the committee called to lay financial and organizational plans to capture the presidency in 1948.

The committee decided to look into a national convention site for 1948 right now because of the shortage of hotel space. It set up a subcommittee of seven to survey the situation after hearing in speeches that many hotels in large cities were booked up through 1948.

California and Montana representatives suggested some place on the Pacific coast be chosen for the presidential nominating convention.

Martin told the banqueters at the Statler Hotel that with production stepped down and strikes rampant again, the job of "cleaning up after the long political carousal is not very spectacular, but it is of the utmost importance to the country."

He asserted a "new depression" must be avoided at all hazards.

"If we sink into another depression," he added, "the Communists, their fellow travellers and the parlor-pinks would welcome the opportunity it would give them to take over this country."

He outlined four points to be followed by his party:

"We must lead the way to governmental efficiency.

"We must lead the way to labor-industrial sanity and co-operation.

"We must lead the way to lower taxes.

"We must lead the way to encouraging business so we will get more and more production and lower prices."

Draft Machinery Will Remain Idle Through January

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. (AP) — Temporarily over-strength, the Army extended the draft holiday today through January but made no promises for February.

A brief announcement that for the third successive month there will be no call on Selective Service for men was accompanied by official hints that a substantial February quota would be necessary because of a sharp decline in voluntary enlistments.

Whether Congress will be asked to extend Selective Service beyond March 31, its present expiration date, was left unanswered.

Gas Moving East Through "Little Inch" Pipe Line

Fuel Expected To Reach Consumers In Five Days To Two Weeks

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP) — Natural gas began flowing today through the war-built pipe line system at the rate of 50,000,000 cubic feet a day, headed from Louisiana northeastward to help relieve the fuel emergency resulting from the coal strike.

Ralph K. Davies, gas and oil chief of the Interior Department, made the announcement to the House committee investigating surplus property.

A government expert said it would take five days to two weeks for the gas to flow 850 miles through the lines to consumers in the Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee and West Virginia area.

The gas was turned first into the "Little Inch" pipe line at Natchitoches, La., at 1:45 p. m., EST. Davies said the movement would commence through the "Big Inch" conduit in a day or two. Within a short time, he said, the combined lines built to transport oil in wartime at a cost of $145,000,000 will be moving up to 155,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas daily.

Experts emphasized, however, that even this would put only a small dent in the fuel shortage, amounting to the heat equivalent of approximately 6,000 tons of coal a day. The normal daily coal output is around 2,000,000 tons.

Although the Big Inch and Little Inch lines stretch 1,500 miles from Texas to the Eastern Seaboard, the initial movements of gas will be for delivery in the midwestern states. Interior officials said this would relieve pressure for fuel in the states farther to the east.

Explaining the difficulty in quick delivery to consumers, Max W. Ball, interior consulting engineer, said the lines now contain water in the "sags" in the valleys and that an inert nigrogen gas, pumped into the pipes to prevent rust after the war, must be pushed out.

Efforts To Break India Deadlock Face Failure

LONDON, Dec. 5. — (AP) — The eleventh hour effort of Britain's highest officials to weld India's Moslems and Hindus into constitutional unity appeared on the brink of failure tonight after three days of intensive explorations for a possible solution.

Informed sources declared the effect of Prime Minister Attlee's vain attempt to mediate the Hindu-Moslem dispute may be the prolongation of Britain's stay in India.

Frank A. King, usually well-informed political writer for the British press association, said "unless within the next 24 hours the deadlock between the Congress Party and the Moslem League can be broken there must inevitably be delay in transferring power from British to Indian hands, and with political currents flowing powerfully in India, the dangers of renewal of communal strife on a scale amounting to civil war are ever-present x x x."

Truman Works On His Sunday Night Address

Presidents Of CIO, AFL And UAW Question Government's Procedure

RESUMPTION OF TALKS PROPOSED BY GREEN

CIO Will Try To Take Part In Lewis' Appeal From Court Decision

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—The government's initial court victory over John L. Lewis and his striking United Mine Workers stung other segments of organized labor into sharp retort tonight.

President of the United Automobile Workers, the CIO and the American Federation of Labor all questioned the government's procedure.

They did so as President Truman prepared for a "fireside chat" Sunday night, in which he is expected to ask the 400,000 soft coal miners to resume their jobs.

But in addition to attacking the government's methods of seeking to end the industry-throttling strike, William Green, president of the AFL, suggested that an effort be made to resume negotiations between the miners' union and the operators.

This was interpreted by some as a peace feeler from Lewis' camp since the United Mine workers are affiliated with the AFL.

Not only did the CIO lambast the government, but it announced it would try to take part in Lewis' appeal from the court decision which found him and his union guilty of contempt and subject to heavy fines.

Attempt "To Turn Back Clock"

"The organized labor movement will not tolerate this attempt to turn back the clock of progress in labor relations," United Automobile Workers (CIO) President Walter P. Reuther and three other top UAW officials said in a statement at Detroit.

Philip Murray, president of the CIO, said:

"The action of the federal court in imposing a fine of $3,500,000 on the United Mine Workers of America and a $10,000 fine upon John L. Lewis, at the request of the government, is a shocking attempt to force American citizens to work against their will through economic coercion."

Green, in conjunction with his proposal for resumption of negotiations said:

"American labor cannot and will not ever accept court in junctions, punishment and penalties, force and involuntary servitude as a substitute for freedom, liberty, justice and democracy."

Green's overture was delivered amid these prime developments:

1. The White House announced the President will speak to the country on the coal crisis at 9:30 p. m., (Eastern Standard Time), Sunday. It seemed certain he will urge the mneirs to return to work on patriotic grounds. And he might have something to say on the negotiations Green proposed.

Union Files Appeal Notice

2. With Lewis back in seclusion, union attorneys filed formal notice of an appeal from the civil and criminal contempt convictions. One of them, Henry Kaiser, said steps will be taken to get the appeal promptly before the Supreme Court, but today's action was a petition to the intermediate Federal Circuit Court of Appeals. There was no word from judge, clerk or counsel on the status of the bond the union was ordered to post for payment of its whopping $3,500,000 fine.

3. Murray, president of the CIO, who broke with Lewis four years ago, announced that "we intend to take whatever steps are necessary to participate in the appeal." This might be done by entering the case

Idleness Stemming From Soft Coal Strike Increases To Over 180,000

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 5 (AP)—Unemployment stemming from the 15-day-old coal strike jumped to more than 180,000 tonight on the eve of a nationwide railroad freight embargo that is expected to send the idle total past 2,500,000 within the week.

General Electric Corporation in Schenectady, N. Y., laid off another 1,200 workers because of the scheduled embargo, while the Ford Motor Company, at Green Island, N. Y., dropped 486 employes, effective with the embargo at 12:01 a. m. tomorrow.

At Elizabeth, N. J., the Simmons Mattress and Furniture Company closed, laying off 2,000.

Meanwhile, New York Central Railroad, with more than 3,500 workers already idle, said it will begin to lay off employes "in the thousands," next week. New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad announced it will furlough 1,500 workers beginning Monday, bringing the line's total to 7,121.

The airplane industry found itself in an enviable position today as the nation's industrial leaders sought to adjust business operations to fit the freight embargo brought on by the two-week-old strike of 400,000 soft coal miners.

While many large manufacturers rushed to get under the wire with shipments before the embargo became effective at midnight tonight, and plans were completed for furloughing as many as 2,500,000 workers within the next week or 10 days, the air plane manufacturing companies, for the most part, figured they would be able to continue for 30 or more days.

Their answer to the problem is their own product—airplanes.

Aircraft plants in the Los Angeles area, employing 50,000, agreed that inventories will be unbalanced in a week or so but they hoped to maintain production for as long as 60 days by flying in supplies.

Industrialists Ask "Pro Public" U. S. Labor Policy

NAM Leaders Call For Greater Voice For Women In National Affairs

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP)—Industrialists attending the annual congress of the National Association of Manufacturers today charged Congress with the responsibility of framing a "pro public" labor policy that would break the "monopolistic powers" of some labor leaders and at the same time guarantee essential freedoms to management and labor alike.

In tones that by contrast appeared moderate to yesterday's angry outpourings against John L. Lewis and President Truman's administration, leaders also asked a greater voice in national affairs for women, particularly in matters that dealt with labor.

They urged also acceptance of a stabilization plan that would guarantee workers, not an annual fixed wage, but the security of knowing that as many working days per year were open to him if he cared to take them.

Simultaneously NAM's board of directors announced approval of an industrial relations program calling for high wages based on high productivity, working conditions that safeguard the health, dignity and self-respect of individual employes, and a stabilized form of employment.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D), of Virginia, brought the crowd to its feet in the most enthusiastic ovation accorded any speaker thus far.

Sen. Byrd blasted the coal strike as an "insurrection" and urged amendments to the Wagner Act. He received his greatest applause when he said, "The President of the United States has not raised his voice in any way to denounce this coal strike. It is his duty."

"Santa" In Court; Summons Dropped Down "Chimney"

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 5. (AP)—Santa Claus was hailed into court today on a summons dropped down the chimney of his corner collection box and charged with refusing to take a physical examination demanded by the City Health Department.

Santa—in the person of 60-year-old Herman Quaas, a Republican district leader—stood on his "constitutional rights," protested the "humiliation" he had suffered, and nodded emphatically through his silken beard as his attorney, Harold Simandl, told Police Judge P. James Pellichia:

"Newark will become the only city in the United States where Santa Claus cannot kiss children and spread his good cheer without a health certificate."

In reply, Christopher Nugent, the health department's chief inspector, said, "Yes, we're setting a precedent by which we want to protect our children from disease."

Blast Kills Two At Corpus Christi

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., Dec. 5 (AP) — A terrific gas company explosion battered a quarter mile of businesses and residences here today, killed two persons and injured six others. Damage was estimated unofficially at $250,000.

The blaze, of undetermined origin, rocked the whole of this densely populated port city, was heard 30 miles away, and demolished the brick building and four sheet iron structures that housed the Hydro Gas Fuel Company.

Five hours after the jarring explosion at 7:32 a. m., firemen extinguished flames that spurted from broken safety valves on two 12,000 gallon gas tanks at the scene.

Dead were Raymond O'Redmond, 27, owner of a cleaning plant near the gas company, and Rev. E. E. Lewis, pastor of the First Pentecostal Church, who yesterday took a job at the cleaning establishment to earn money to buy Christmas baskets for the poor of his church.

For three blocks south of the gas plant small residences were damaged beyond repair and the Red Cross moved in to care for the homeless.

Justice Jackson Receives W. Md. College Degree

WESTMINSTER, Md., Dec. 5 (AP)—The United States, with its newfound power among the nations, is in a "race between chaos and moral responsibility," Associate Justice Robert H. Jackson, of the United States Supreme Court, said today.

"H. G. Wells once said the race is between chaos and education, but I believe the race is between chaos and moral responsibility," Jackson said in an informal address after receiving an honorary doctor of laws degree from Western Maryland College.

Jackson said the Nuernberg trials had put international law "on the side of peace," whereas before it was either indifferent to war or accepted war as inevitable.

meetings of the Mayor and Council.

Born In South Carolina

Dr. Koon was born in Newberry county, South Carolina, November 12, 1870, a son of the late Walter F. and Laura R. Suber Koon. His father was of German ancestry and spent his whole life in South Carolina. He was the oldest of eight children.

Dr. Koon was reared on the farm and attended local schools. For a time he attended private schools at Leesville, S. C., and then entered the College of Physicians and Surgeons, now a part of the University of Maryland, Baltimore, and was graduated in 1893.

He practiced in his native county for a year and then opened an office in Eglon, Preston county, West Virginia. He remained there until 1900, when he came to Cumberland.

He soon became recognized as one of the city's leading physicians and was a member of the American Medical Association, the Maryland State Medico-Chirurgical Faculty, and the Allegany-Garrett County Medical Society.

Favored Commission Form

In 1908, Dr. Koon was elected to the city council. He strongly opposed the councilmanic form of government and was an uncompromising advocate of the commission form. The latter plan was adopted in 1910. Dr. Koon was elected to the council that year and served as police and fire commissioner. He was re-elected in 1912.

Dr. Koon impressed citizens with his untiring efforts and ability and in 1914 was elected mayor. He served in this capacity until 1922, when he was defeated by George Henderson. George W. Legge followed Henderson as mayor for two years and then in 1936 Dr. Koon was elected without opposition. He was re-elected in 1938 and on June 19, 1939, resigned to become a member of the State Tax Commission.

He served for only a short period when he was named to the State Industrial Accident Commission by Governor Herbert R. O'Conor. His term expires June 1, 1945, and he was renamed to the post by Governor O'Conor after a short period.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Fannie H. Hutson Koon; a sister, Mrs. James Leonard Sease, Wilmington, Del.; three brothers, George O. Koon, Newberry, S. C.; John and Joseph Koon, both of Prosperity, S. C. Among other survivors is Mrs. Fred W. Fochtman, this city, a niece who was a daughter of his brother, the late Julius H. Koon.

Telegrams signed by Delancy B. Scrivner, secretary of the State Industrial Accident Commission, were sent here yesterday informing parties concerned that all accident commission hearings scheduled here for 10 a. m. today have been postponed until further notice due to Dr. Koon's death.

Roving Strikers Halt Operations At Strip Mines Near Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 5 (AP)—Carloads of striking miners roamed through the Pittsburgh mining district today and succeeding in halting operations at several strip mines.

The strikers were careful to avoid actual picketing which would be in violation of the Smith-Connally Act, but shouted "quit work" warnings at truck drivers and miners still on the job.

In two isolated instances, a carload of men pulled in front of a loaded truck, leaped out, jerked the cargo release lever and poured the load of coal onto the highway. State police said the driver was not molested in either case.

One trucker reported roofing nails had been scattered on a road leading to the tipple of the Cliff mine near Imperial.

State police said they were summoned to the Sunnyhill mine, near Imperial, by the company president, C. H. Snyder, but reported no violence.

A spokesman for the Navy Coal Mines Administration said at least four and possibly more strip mines discontinued operations today following visits by the roving strikers. He said 75 strip mines and six small deep pits—with a daily total output of 40,000 tons—continued to work.

Supervisors at the Sunnyhill mine reported about 100 diggers continued to work despite the "suggestion" of the visiting strikers that they quit.

and filing a supporting brief with the court's permission or by assigning counsel to join the defense staff, or both.

The fine and injunction against the miners thus provided a rallying point for labor's divided forces, while bringing no end to the bituminous strike. Murray, once a vice president of the UMW but later Lewis' foe, declared the court action "a shocking attempt to force American citizens to work against their will through economic coercion."

John Small, CPA Chieftain, Resigns

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—John D. Small turned in his resignation today as Civilian Production Administrator with the assertion that industrial transition from war to peace "is largely behind us."

The 53-year-old Chicago businessman and former naval officer, whose agency was set up to facilitate industry's reconversion, told President Truman in a letter:

"For the past several months we have had practically full employment. Production has been the highest in our peacetime history. For these reasons I believe that the industrial transition from war to peace is largely behind us. I do not mean to imply that all of our problems have been overcome.

"However, once the difficult labor-management problems confronting the country are solved—and I am confident that they will be solved—still higher levels of production will pave the way to an even higher standard of living for the American people."

Cold Shoulder For Lewis

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 5 (AP)—Deputy Jose Tesorieri, an adherent of President Juan Peron, proposed today that the Chamber of Deputies rise in homage to John L. Lewis and his striking mine union as a gesture of solidarity of Argentine workers. The chairman ruled the proposal improper.

Loyalty Proving Expensive To Nation's Mine Workers

One phase of the government's battle against John L. Lewis was ended Wednesday when Judge Goldsborough in Federal Court fined his union $3,500,000 and assessed $10,000 personally against the miners' chief. But the punishment will not produce one ounce of coal, and the country, now confronted with a terrifying economic collapse, will probably have to undergo further sacrifices and suffering while Mr. Lewis drags the case through higher court on appeal.

On the surface it would appear that the government, in its effort to bring the miners back into the pits, has failed, with the only accomplishment being the solidifying of the miners behind their leader.

In the midst of all this confusion, however, we are led to the thought that unless the coal miners are entirely different from other people they are beginning to wonder whether it is not a stiff price they are paying in order to enable Mr. Lewis to show his strength and greatness among men. For the second time this year they are out of work and living on slender strike benefits. Once again their own small savings are being dissipated and their families are being deprived of many of the necessities of life.

As always, the miners—not Lewis—make the sacrifices. He suffers no loss of income and he continues to live in splendor. He is where he wants to be—in the public eye—and the union treasury is being used to further his personal ambitions and maintain his authority as a labor leader.

The miners, moreover, must see now that they will get nothing out of the present controversy with the government that could not be obtained by other means. This time the government, it is clear, will not surrender and the nation is determined to maintain its sovereignty at any cost. For the workers, then, only grief and more grief can flow from a policy of blindly following a leader who has embarked on a course of rebellion against 140,000,000 people.

The other way would have been so much better and so much more fruitful of results. If Lewis had kept his men at work and had sought to win concessions for them through direct negotiations with the operators the chances are that he might have achieved at least a measure of success.

As it is he is giving the miners nothing but unemployment and hardships. If they think about the matter at all they must know that this is the truth.

The Tillamook Indians are entitled to payment for lands in Oregon taken from them by the government, the Supreme Court ruled. As the court did not order the country returned to them, the redskins probably will accept the ruling.

Death Comes To Outstanding Physician And Citizen

In the passing of Dr. Thomas W. Koon, Cumberland and the state of Maryland have lost one of their leading physicians and public-spirited citizens. Dr. Koon was a man ever alert to the needs of the people, to the advancement of Cumberland, and to the affairs of state he was called upon to assist in administering.

Dr. Koon was, perhaps, best known as a physician and as mayor of Cumberland, which post he held for a greater length of time than any other man ever to be elected by the people of the city. That Dr. Koon was a progressive city executive, no one will deny. He accomplished more for the people than any mayor before him or since. During his terms he fathered many improvements and advancements. His aggressive spirit and resulting achievements won for him high esteem. He leaves many memorials to his life that brought untold benefits of an economic, civic and healthful nature, and the people will ever be grateful for the forsightedness he displayed, and his accomplishments in their behalf.

That Dr. Koon had a tremendous following goes without saying. In his chosen profession as a doctor, he was looked upon as the old type of family physician, in that he had schooled himself not only in administering medicine with undisputed knowledge, but in that of surgery which he performed with skill. For years Dr. Koon was often referred to as the "baby doctor," in that he was called upon by so many Cumberland mothers to deliver their children. But his duties as a physician were not confined to the practice of obstetrics.

He gave freely of his medical knowledge and because of his great desire to relieve the sufferings of those ill he would not permit himself to turn away a single person in need of care, and he never refused to respond to calls of mercy night or day, if it were at all possible to do so. That reputation was built up over his life, and continued to his death, with perhaps some lesser degree during his later years because of his advancing age and an illness of which he had long been a sufferer.

It was during the flu epidemic of 1918-19 that this great humanitarian trait became so pronounced. He rested little, if at all, in order to render aid to those stricken by the plague. He visited homes of those persons daily, many of the calls being made at midnight and in the early hours of morning. His faithfulness to those patients is still recalled whenever Dr. Koon's name is mentioned. It was not, however, the only outstanding service he rendered. His charity was widespread. He gave lavishly and unselfishly of his time to those requiring assistance, never stopping to consider whether a person be poor or rich.

Dr. Koon fulfilled many positions of trust with great credit, among them being as a member of the Maryland State Tax Commission, and later, and until his death, as a member of the Maryland State Industrial Accident Commission.

He was unostentatious, friendly and companionable. He made friends with all with whom he came in contact during his useful, busy career whether as physician, surgeon or as an executive of the city. It is not any one of his services and achievements, but all that will live long in the minds of those who knew him. His passing is, indeed, a public loss which all of us feel and deplore.

Automobile telephone will complete an already critical situation. Not only will it be necessary to have a friend to get a car but to know somebody at the telephone company as well.

Average man is 43 per cent muscle, 2 per cent brain and 1 per cent heart by weight, which may explain a lot of things.

NAILS ARE FUNCTIONAL DEVICES

OUR moden gals who are intent on maintaining beautiful nails are merely adheriing to an age-old custom practiced by the Egyptians as early as 1000 B. C. Henna was employed by many, others preferred gilding. The women of Burma, Persia, and Algeria also were addicted to this type of decoration. The Albanians used red and the gypsies were said to color the entire toe, not necessarily for cosmetic reasons but to guard against cold.

The nails are more than adornments. They protect our digits and make it easy for us to lift various objects. Their utility is not appreciated until one is lost and we try to untie a knot or pick up a coin from the floor.

The visible portion resembles a super-callus which is harder and sturdier than ordinary skin. The structure originates from the matrix located in the back of the half-moon under the cuticle. As these cells multiply the horny plate advances progressively outward at the rate of approximately 1-32 of an inch per week. Since neither blood vessels nor nerve endings are present, bleeding and pain does not accompany cutting.

A nail which is torn or split cannot be repaired but the situation will be corrected in time with growth. This is one of the main reasons why we have learned to keep them short for, after reaching a certain length, they are more of a handicap than an asset.

Folklore tells us that aristocratic Asiatics allowed them to grow as long as possible. In these circumstances they assume a spiral shape and bend palmward like claws. To prevent breakage, the orientals devised nail protectors and some of the most artistic have been preserved as museum pieces. In one group of natives, the elongated nails became substitutes for combs. In another, gold dust was picked up on the underside and the amount held was used as a dry measure.

Many abnormalities result from injury to, or infection in the matrix. Thru disturbances in the circulation or faulty nutrition, the structures can become thin and brittle so that they break off easily. A similar disorder is seen sometimes in victims of chronic illnesses. The contour also can be changed by fungous invasion, eczema, psoriasis, or other generalized skin disorders. Ridging or indentations may accompany high fever as in pneumonia or scarlet fever as well as glandular or anemic conditions.

White spots frequently result from slight damage to the matrix, usually in overzealous manicuring and pushing back the cuticle too far. The dots may follow disease in much the same way as grooves are produced. In the past, they were associated with superstitions. Bavarians believed that the marks implied luck and long life, whereas on the Rhine they were said to be found only in liars.

The folklore on nail cutting is voluminous. Certain periods were taboo, such as market and feast days. In many countries the baby's nails had to be bitten off by the mother lest the child learn to steal. Nail parings were once considered therapeutic agents. Some thought that sickness would vanish if they were tied to a fish and the creature allowed to swim away. Dropsy was cured by placing the fragments on the abdomen; and burying them in an oak tree would cure gout.

These compounds form the chief structure of proteins. Up to date, 20 or more have been described, but the 10 essential amino acids are: arginine, histidine, isoleucine, leucine, lysine, methionine, phenylalanine, threonine, tryptophane, and valine.

This depends on the severity of the involvement. Fortunately, the organ has tremendous recuperative powers, thus permitting it to continue to function even tho a large proportion has been damaged.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Stalin Is Sick Again; Fact Made Known To State Department; Adm. Mitscher Refuses Sea-Paid Turkey While Ashore; Government Fails To Encourage Strip Mining

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—Diplomatic dispatches from Moscow indicate definitely that Marshal Stalin's health has had another setback. He suffered a heart attack sometime in November and is now resting in the Crimea.

This fact has been made the subject of an official report to the State Department.

This last heart attack is the second suffered by the man who has so long ruled Russia. Last winter he also had to go to the Crimea to recuperate from an illness. Stalin is now 67 years old, but has crammed more diversified life and hardship into those years than any other world leader.

Imprisoned and exiled to Siberia eight times, the years have taken their toll, and Stalin was not playacting when he held up Churchill and Truman by staying in bed one day at Potsdam.

It is generally expected that Foreign Minister Molotov will succeed Stalin.

Note—The experience of all American negotiators, from Roosevelt to Jimmy Byrnes, is that Stalin is much easier to do business with than Molotov. This may be because Stalin doesn't have to worry about the Politburo as much as Molotov.

John L. Lewis Columns Reprinted

There have been so many requests for Drew Pearson's recent series of sensational columns on the life of John L. Lewis and how he became the most powerful labor leader in America, that Pearson's newspaper syndicate has reprinted the columns in booklet form. They may be obtained by sending a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed long-size envelope to the Bell Syndicate, 247 W. 43 Street, New York 18.—The Editor.

Seagoing Admiral Mitscher

There are admirals—and admirals, in the Navy. There is Admiral Ernie King, recently retired Commander of the Fleet, who kept U. S. Marines guarding his regularly assigned quarters at the Naval Observatory (one of the safest places in Washington) and in addition collected seagoing pay because he also slept in his naval yacht moored in the Potomac Tidal Basin.

There is also Admiral Randall Jacobs, recently transferred Chief of Naval Personnel, who had the use of a government-equipped house, plus a couple of Filipino servants at the old Naval hospital in Washington.

And there is also Commodore Jake Vardaman, Truman's former naval aide, who requisitioned enlisted men to repair his Washington home (whether they liked it or not) and who also collected seagoing pay despite the fact that he was living in a comfortable home in a Washington suburb.

On the other hand, there is Admiral Marc Mitscher, a recent hero of the Pacific, now Commander-in-Chief of the Atlantic Fleet. His permanent base is Norfolk. However, housing conditions are such that Mrs. Mitscher has not been able to rent a private home there. Mrs. Mitscher could secure naval housing at the Norfolk Naval Base, but her husband points out that since he is getting extra pay for sea duty, he has no right to sponge on the Navy for free rent ashore.

Note—The Mitschers celebrated Thanksgiving Day in some furnished rooms where cooking facilities were not good, and the Admiral's galley crew wanted to surprise Mrs. Mitscher with a turkey cooked aboard ship and brought ashore. The Admiral, however, said that seagoing duty was seagoning duty for thousands of men who couldn't even be with their families on Thanksgiving Day and ruled out the sea-cooked, shore-delivered turkey.

Strip-Mine Coal

"Old curmudgeon" Ickes, the man who used to battle it out with John L. Lewis in the Roosevelt Administration, has now come out with the common-sense suggestion that the Government speed up strip-mining. Ickes points out that strip mines produce 100,000,000 tons of coal annually, and that if the Government got busy with bulldozers and steam shovels and enlisted a corps of Seabees, this could be increased enough to keep the railroads and public utilities going.

However, the Truman Administration is much more skilled at cooling its heels than spark-plugging a big drive for more strip-mining.

For instance, here is the reception which one strip miner, W. J. Lyda of Black Lick, Pa., got when he tried to get two Diesel shovels and two D-8 bulldozers. After getting the run-around in Pennsylvania, strip-miner Lyda finally appealed through friends to this columnist.

This office in turn contacted half a dozen people in Solid Fuels Administration and the Civilian Production Administration, all of whom were courteously anxious to fill out CPA form 4425 showing the need of this coal machinery and send it to John E. Steinhauer, Metals and Minerals Division of the Civilian Production Administration.

Upon a proper showing of urgency it was said that the CPA would issue a certificate which would then permit coal-stripper Lyda to get his shovels and bulldozers—if he can find them.

However, the War Assets Administration informed this columnist that despite a certificate from CPA it had no D-8 bulldozers, and no shovels. Furthermore, dealers state that they will not have this equipment for eight months to one year.

Meanwhile, however, both the Army and Navy have row upon row of bulldozers and steam-shovels which are not too busy. Furthermore, under the President's war powers — which still are in force—he has the power to requisition equipment from private companies now used on projects which soon must come to a halt anyway if there is no coal.

While this is not wartime, it may be worse than wartime as far as creeping paralysis is concerned if there isn't more esprit de corps and initiative on the part of certain bogged-down gentlemen in high Government places.

North Carolina Yankee

When Administration friends approached ex-Governor Max Gardner about being U. S. Ambassador to his Britannic Majesty's Court of St. James, Max replied:

"I've been bowin' and scrapin' to North Carolinians all my life, and in my old age I'll be darned if I want to be bowin' to anyone else now."

However, at this difficult period, with British labor kicking over the traces against the British alliance with right-swinging, Republican-bent USA, Max Gardner will make about the best possible choice for American Ambassador—whether he puts on knee breeches or not.

State Department officials have already warned Max that he will have to hire a valet—which will go against the new Ambassador's homespun humility. He will also live in Barbara Hutton's ornate former palace, surrounded by about 25 acres of park, featuring a swimming pool in the basement, gold bathroom fixtures, and iron bars, worked by pushbuttons, that slide over the windows at night.

But, despite all the folderol, if the British are wise, they will know that this astute but humble North Carolina Yankee at the Court of St. James represents the backbone of the USA from the grass roots up, and can speak simply but wholeheartedly for it.

Building Down Of Power Of Labor Unions Advocated

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

Senators Fulbright, of Arkansas, and Ferguson, of Michigan, as a solution to the strike malady, propose federal industrial courts. The idea is appealing, but in the light of experience, it is questionable whether they would do much good. Government attics are already cluttered with rusty machinery for grinding out mediation, conciliation, and procrastination. There is scarcely a bureau or department in Washington that is not fully equipped with mechanical gadgets to brush the beetling brows of John L. Lewis and soothe his Shakespearian moods.

What good do the gadgets do when the big pinch comes? Who pays any attention to them? Australia, I understand, has added the industrial court idea, as suggested by the Senators, but the court's decrees are obeyed by the unions only when the decrees run in their favor. Otherwise, they spit in the judge's eye: as they did in Pittsburgh recently. The idea is snafu.

Free Collective Bargaining Favored

Questions of wages, hours and working conditions are better handled by management and men at the local level by the democratic process of free collective bargaining in a competitive market economy. Note that I said "at the local level."

But our whole approach in recent years has been away from democracy, toward the autocracy of huge nation-wide labor monopolies. Instead of draping some additional political appointees with ermine robes to wrestle with the autocrats of labor, we should cut down these autocrats to manageable size. Today they stride across the land on giant stilts given them by the same government which it is now proposed would appoint new judges of the length of their strides!

To quote Mr. Lewis' favorite author:

"Why, man, he doth bestride
this narrow world
"Like a Colossus; and we petty men
"Walk under his huge legs, and peep about
"To find ourselves dishonourable graves."

It is hinted that the peeping about business is now going on—as usual.

Take Away Stilts

The answer is simple. Take away the stilts from those who abuse the powers which government itself confers.

When in the old days the Standard Oil nation-wide monopoly got too big for petty men to cope with, the Sherman Anti-Trust Act took away its stilts. And we now have several score of petroleum companies instead of one giant.

When the public utility holding company empires grew too vast through the powers to incorporate, combine and control, which the law itself gave them, the law took the powers away.

Ou rapproach should not be the road to fascism and judicial decrees enforced (?) by bayonets. We should return to the democratic principle that opposes the concentration of power over the lives of men, whether in industry, or finance, or labor, or government itself. Total government against the total power of a nation-wide labor monopoly is not the answer.

Power Should Be Built Down

This is no time to evade the issue with governmental gadgets and contraptions that look good on paper, but fail in the clutch.

Instead of building up the power of government over huge labor unions, we should build down the power of huge labor unions over government.

Would you tolerate all coal mines being organized into a single gigantic trust where the owners could freeze the American people?

No! Then why should we tolerate all coal miners being herded into a single union, so strong that only the threat of Army rule and prison sentence can even make the pretense of coping with it.

Now is the time for the American people to speak.

Bowing To Will Of The Government Seen As Only Way Out For Lewis

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 — The shock which had its impact on union leaders everywhere when Justice Goldsborough imposed his fine of $3,500,000 on the United Mine Workers was not due to the size of the fine but to the fact that the government—especially the judicial branch—had the temerity to hold a labor union responsible for anything.

Labor union leaders have been telling the country for a long time that whatever they want must be granted by government and that no restraining hand can be laid upon them by anybody.

When any group in the nation preaches the doctrine of being above the law, extremes will ensue. Most of the miners think John L. Lewis is above the law and that their union can do anything it pleases. The theory that the nation cannot get coal except as the miners will to supply it implies a proprietorship over natural resources far more powerful than that of any owners.

Labor union leaders generally will doubtless rally to the support of the miners' union and will denounce the court which issued the decision, but this will only serve to emphasize the prevalent belief among labor chiefs that the unions and their leaders cannot be restrained under the Norris - Laguardia anti - injunction law or any other statute now in existence.

Lewis Defies Constitution

Mr. Lewis, in fact, insists that labor union rights are above the constitution, for he defied a court order, Mr. Lewis, in behalf of the things only temporarily until the issue could be heard in court. By refusing to abide by the restraining ored, Mr. Lewis, in behalf of the miners' union, said in effect that no labor union must obey a court order today in a labor dispute.

Theoretically, the Lewis argument is that the Norris-LaGuardia anti-injunction law binds the hands of the government as well as of private owners. Where there is doubt as to the applicability of a law, a test case must be brought. Lewis, by his refusal to obey the order, was apparently of the belief that a temporary restraining order could not be constitutional if the Norris-LaGuardia act applied. Justice Goldsborough held that the anti-injunction statute didn't apply, and this left Lewis and the Miners' union in the position of ignoring the restraining order altogether.

An appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States is being taken but, while lawyers differ as to the probable outcome of the litigation, it seems assured that the decision will be of far-reaching significance. The principle to be decided is whether, every time a statute is passed, there must be a specific mention of the inclusion or exclusion of the federal government from the provisions.

Some laws mention the federal establishment and some do not. When the Norris-Laguardia Act was being considered by Congress, many members said during the debate that, of course, the government was not involved. It will be interesting to see the Supreme Court decide what was or what was not the intent of Congress, though, to be sure, the main issue may be whether it was necessary to specify government exemption at all.

Should Be Taken For Granted

The basic theory behind the no-mention idea is that the sovereign power of the government itself may be taken for granted no matter what the statutes say. Mr. Lewis, unfortunately for his case, has been on both sides of the issue, for recently in another litigation he insisted that the miners were working for the federal government and were doing so by virtue of soverign power.

Congress will certainly amend the Norris-Laguardia act to remove all doubt on this point, but this will not affect the outcome of the pending appeal which the miners' union is taking.

What comes next? The contempt proceedings and the fine of $250,000 per day were part of a program of steady pressure by the administration to persuade the miners' union to come to terms. That pressure continues and the miners' union faces disintegration if it insists on fighting the federal government. At any moment Lewis may be expected to bow to the will of the government, send the miners back to work and start negotiations with the private owners through the government. That's his only way out.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

Wy wife won't admit it, but I think she belongs to the Northwest Mounted Police. Otherwise, she wouldn't spend so much time helping her girl friends get their man. It wouldn't surprise me if I walked into my living room some night, and found a map with colored pins showing the location of all eligible bachelors.

Billy Rose

This morning when I came down late for breakfast I found Eleanor having a heart-to-heart with her chum Dolores. This pretty package recently divorced her husband, and she's getting to that age where what she wants for her birthday is not to be reminded of it.

Over the orange juice I heard them discussing A New Man. Dolores had met him the night before at El Morocco. To hear her tell it, he was Gary Cooperish in build, Tom Deweyish in mustache, and RFC-ish in bankroll. Let's call him Roger Turner.

"You're not thinking of marrying a man for his money?" I kidded her.

"Certainly not," Dolores deadpanned, "but I want my next husband to have a good disposition, and if he's poor he'll be worried and irritable."

"You've only met Turner once," I chided. "How can you talk about marrying him?"

Eleanor piped up, "It's not as if he were a stranger. A girl we know was engaged to him for almost a year."

"With all that money," I said, "chances are he's too old to be considered eligible."

Dolores knew the snappy comeback: "With all that money he's too eligible to be considered old."

With the scrambled eggs, I got the story of the previous evening. Friends had introduced them and they had dined. During a foxtrot, Dolores told Roger a little lie about spending the Christmas holidays at Acapulco, Mexico. During the waltz, Roger said it was Kismet—by coincidence he was spending the holidays in Acapulco too.

Eleanor reacted to the story like the Master of the Fox Hounds when "Tally-ho!" rings out in the morning air. She took over.

"We must be all set for him when he gets to Acapulco," she said briskly.

"That's a good idea," I said through the zweiback. Ten seconds later I jumped, spilled the coffee and knocked over an end table. "What do you mean, we must be all set for him?" I demanded of my wife. "What have you got to do with it?"

"I'm going with her," said Eleanor. "If Dolores went down there alone, people would say she was husband-hunting. Hand me that pad. I want to list the summer things I'll have to buy."

I sat there brooding. Here I'd been leading a life so well-organized I could write my diary a week in advance. Suddenly I was facing a wifeless Christmas. "Billy no like-um," I said to myself. "Billy no like-um at all."

But instead of blowing my top, I played dead like Tricky Otis and let them babble. When Dolores finally left to buy the bathing suits which would help her outstrip the other gals on the beach, I commenced maneuvers. I'm an old campaigner. I knew hollering about a transcontinental wild gander chase would get me nowhere. I decided to use the Approach Financial. I have discovered it usually gets a woman where she lives.

"I think you're doing a fine thing," I said, "but it's going to cost you a packet of dough—plane fare, hotel, clothes, tennis balls—well over a thousand would be my guess."

Eleanor put the brakes on her pencil and looked up. I had hit a two-bagger, but I wasn't home yet. I took a long lead off second and continued.

"I'll make a deal with you, baby. Forget Acapulco and I'll buy you the wristwatch with the red stones we saw in Cartier's window yesterday. That way you'll be ahead a wristwatch, plus the thousand you would have spent on the trip."

I was rounding third now. "Besides," I purred, "it won't seem like Christmas without you."

Eleanor gave it deep consideration for all of three seconds. "I wouldn't want to spoil your Christmas," she smiled. "Don't forget to pick up the watch on your way to the office."

Before I left the house, I stopped off and told the maid, "Give the goldfish some extra bread crumbs this morning. I'm a happy man and I want to see happy faces around here."

Tonight as we were finishing dinner the doorbell rang. It was Dolores again, mad as a wet cat. "The heel!" she exploded. "The heartless heel!"

"What happened?" asked Eleanor.

"I just found out Roger Turner is married!" she stormed. "And what's even worse, he's in love with his wife! There ought to be a law!"

"Don't let it throw you, darling," said Eleanor. "Jimmy Stewart is coming to town next month and—"

"We're going to be late for the theatre," I interrupted, "What time is it getting to be?"

"Ten after eight," said Eleanor, consulting the Watch with the Red Stones.

If I ever meet Roger Turner I'm going to spit right in his eye.

ARMY-NAVVY GAME

That Army-Navy football game last Saturday must have been really exciting. The cheering was so loud the speaker in my radio got hoarse. During the last few minutes the crowd kept getting out of hand and swarming out into the field. I know because the account of the last play read, "The Navy halfback was stopped on the 5-yard line by Blanchard, Davis, a machine tool salesman from Pittsburgh and an unidentified blonde."

But it was really wonderful, the way that Navy team, after losing seven straight, came back in that second half and almost walked home with the Army's mule hide. The last quarter Navy had the ball so close to the goal line that after each play they'd have to come out and dust the chalk off the ball carrier's eyebrows.

As the pistol shot that ended the game sounded there were 200 echoes from the stands. It was the gamblers who'd given 30 points on Army commiting hara kiri.

President Truman attended the game and almost lost his voice yelling at the players. He must have thought they were Congress. As a matter of faet, what was going on on the field probably wasn't rough enough to look like the new Congress.

But President Truman sat on the Army side for one half, and the Navy side for the other half. There were Democrats on each team.

Local Man Sails For Pole Expedition

Charles Harwell Saville, ETM, 2-c, former student at Fort Hill High School, is aboard the command ship, USS Mount Olympus, which sailed with Task Force 68 Monday headed for the South Pole.

Saville, a junior at Fort Hill, when he entered the Navy, has continued his studies while in service and was recently graduated from the Naval Research Labortory, Beelevue, Wash. He is a brother of Mrs. E. A. Middleton, Bedford road.

Over 4,000 men and 13 ships comprise the force headed for the Antarctic on the greatest expedition in polar region history.

Coverage Of Vet Insurance Widened

William A. Burns, officer in charge of the Cumberland contact office of the Veterans' Administration today reminded veterans who have National Service Life Insurance that they now may be insured against total disability.

Total disability income benefits authorized by recent legislation may be added to any plan of NSL insurance upon application, medical examination, and payment of an extra premium, the contact officer said.

Premium rates for the disability coverage range from six cents to 94 cents a month per $1,000 of insurance depending on the insured's age and type of policy.

The disability benefits are at the rate of $5 a month for each $1,000 of insurance and are payable after the veteran has been totally disabled continuously for six months or more. The monthly benefits will continue to be paid as long as the insured remains totally disabled. However, the disability must commence before the veteran's sixtieth birthday.

One of the principal features of the new disability benefit, the VA official said, is that the face value of the veteran's policy will not be reduced by any disability payments that he might receive.

Burns said that veterans with service-connected disabilities less than total in degree are not prevented from taking advantage of the new provision, provided they apply for it before January 1, 1950. In these cases, such disabilities are waived if they are the only bar to meeting the health requirements.

Veterans who wish to obtain full information regarding the new disability income feature should visit the Cumberland Contact Office, room 10, 111 Union street, in Cumberland.

Steps To Form Sanitary District May Be Taken

A preliminary meeting to discuss the formation of the proposed Allegany County Sanitary District, expected to be authorized by next year's session of the Maryland General Assembly, may be held at City Hall next week, according to Dr Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer.

Sanitary engineers have termed Georges Creek, from its source near Frostburg, to its confluence with the North branch of the Potomac at Westernport, one of the most heavily polluted streams in the Cumberland area.

Treatment facilities for the sanitary sewage it receives would do much toward clearing up the Upper Potomac Valley, and this project will be attempted through the formation of such a district, it was stated.

William Gatehouse Weds Mrs. Edna D. McDonald

Ceremony Is Performed In Spartanburg, S. C., Baptist Parsonage

The marriage of Mrs. Edna David McDonald, Spartanburg, S. C., daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John David, to William H. Gatehouse, this city, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gatehouse, Frostburg, was solemnized December 2.

The single ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Samuel Lawton, at 4:30 in the afternoon in the Baptist parsonage in Spartanburg. The bride was attired in a gray suit with matching accessories.

Born in Boston, Mass., the bride was taken by her parents to Dillon, S. C., when a child. For the past three years she has been living in Spartanburg. She is a saleswoman for Charis garments, and books and Bibles from John C. Winston Company, Philadelphia. She was a member of the Eastern Star and the First Baptist Church in Spartanburg, where she was active in the BTU and other church work.

Mr. Gatehouse, who served as a clerk in the division accountant's office of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for 26 years, was retired in 1942. Prior to working for the railroad he had taught the 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th grades at the Lindnerville school from 1913 until 1916, at which time it had been a junior high school. He has resided in Cumberland since 1913 and is a member of the First Baptist Church, this city, serving as a deacon since 1944. He is also a member of the Masons, Junior Order United American Mechanics, Frostburg, and Knights of Pythias, Frostburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Gatehouse arrived here Wednesday morning and are residing at 803 Maryland avenue.

Emmanuel Bible Class Holds Election

The Emmanuel Bible Class of Kingsley Methodist Church accepted the resignation of two officers and elected their successors, at a meeting earlier in the week.

Mrs. Harry J. Gurley succeeded Mrs. Lloyd H. Wood, who has served as president for eight years, and resigned to devote all her time as teacher of the class. Miss Idella Couter was elected secretary replacing Mrs. Charles E. Statler, Sr., who had served in that capacity for 14 years.

Other officers are Mrs. Henry McClure, vice president; and Mrs. Blanche Rodenhauser, treasurer.

December 17 was selected for the annual Christmas dinner, which will be served at the church, at which time class sisters will be revealed and gifts exchanged.

Receives Discharge

Mrs. Amelia Morton, 328 Reservoir street, has received a telephone call from her daughter, Cpl. Ruth Lee Ollrich, WAC, stationed at Letterman's General Hospital, San Francisco, Calif., that she received her discharge November 29.

Cpl. Ollrich, who has been in the service approximately two years, received her boot training at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., from there she was sent to Bushnell Hospital, Salt Lake City, Utah; then Letterman's. She served in the Medical Corps of the Army.

Prior to her enlistment, Cpl. Ollrich was employed in the Ford plant at Wyandotte, Mich., so this will be her first Christmas at home in four years. She will arrive here between the 15th and 20th.

Girl Scouts Appeal For 7 Volunteers

A concerted effort to secure leaders, troop committee members and sponsoring groups was launched by the Cumberland Girl Scout Council, Wednesday night.

Mrs. George Miller, chairman of the Organization committee, appealed to the council to supply additional workers from it's own membership in order to insure every troop, which has been interrupted because of the lack of volunteer leadership, will be re-established in the immediate future.

The augmented committee considered the needs of every Scout and Brownie troop under it's jurisdiction and found that more than 70 women are needed, at once, to fully staff the groups which have already been started and a new Brownie troop at John Humbird school.

Recruiting of volunteer leaders will go on through the holidays, and following Wednesday's meeting Mrs. Miller said, "I feel much encouraged by the spirit of cooperation with which council members rallied to help solve our problems, and now, if the women whom we shall ask to be leaders have the true Christmas spirit, we shall be able to promise the seven groups of girls who are waiting for their troops to meet that they will find a pair of brand new Girl Scout leaders on their Christmas trees."

An accelerated training program has been set up by the Training committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Milton Beneman, which will enable the new leaders to prepare for their work rapidly. Classes will begin the second week of January.

JOHNSON HEIGHTS PUPILS TO BEGIN SWIMMING CLASSES

Forty boys and girls of the sixth grade at Johnson Heights School have registered for the "learn to swim" program being sponsored by Allegany County Chapter of the American Red Cross. Their four-week course will begin today, according to James E. Kelley, Jr., instructor.

Classes will be held each Monday, Tuesday and Thursday from 4 to 5 p. m. at the Central YMCA pool.

The first group of sixth grade school children, 30 pupils of West Side School, completed their course Tuesday, Kelley said. All will receive Red Cross beginners' swimming certificates. Requirements include swimming 60 feet in deep water, free style; an elementary standing dive; and swimming 30 feet, using an elementary back stroke.

The West Side class originally included 35 students, but some were forced to drop out because of illness.

Present plans call for teaching all sixth grade students in city and county public schools, and possibly in parochial schools, to swim. That age group, approximately 12 years old, was chosen because children that age are able to learn quickly and in most cases have not developed a fear of water. Kelley said.

Registration blanks are prepared by the Red Cross and the county board of education, and consent of parents is obtained before children are enrolled.

Schools in which the program is to be carried out are designated by Charles L. Kopp, county superintendent of schools, a few days in advance of the beginning of a new swimming class.

The eventual aim of the program is to teach every school child in the county to swim.

Miss Fern Coburn, Philadelphia, from the board of Christian Education, will be the guest speaker. Her topic will be "Christian Witness for Our Times." The committee in charge comprises Mrs. Albert H. Macy, Mrs. Karl Perry and Mrs. Alvin Storey.

The association also carried the motion to donate $15 to the YMCA drive; and upon the request of Mrs. A. Hammond Amick, chairman of the Hospital Council, for 50 Gifts to the Yanks packages, the group will send the packages or their value of $1.50. The articles in the packages consist mainly of toilet goods. It was also announced that the "White Gifts" of canned food or money from the circles are to be given to Rev. William A. Eisenberger, to be used as he receives calls for assistance.

The program was in charge of the Critchfield-Ervin Circle, under the direction of Mrs. Robert Critchfield. It consisted of the group singing of "O Little Town of Bethlehem"; the Christmas story from the Bible verses, given by Mrs. George W. Legge, who also commented on the spirit of Christmas.

Mrs. Harry G. Parker, soprano, sang, "Jesu, Bambino," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Samuel T. Weatherholt. Mrs. J. D. Eisenberger read the Christmas story, "Mine Eyes Behold This Glory," as told by the keeper of the Inn. Christmas carols were played softly by Mrs. Kenneth Wilson, violinist, and Mrs. William Ludman, pianist, during the reading. They also played "Adoration," and Brahm's "Lullaby." The program closed with the group singing of Adeste Fidelis and group benediction.

The McDonald-Hutter Circle was in charge of the social hour and served refreshments. Sixty-five members attended.

Deputy Sheriff Escorts "Dreamer" To Bus

John Wilson, New York negro, who had a beautiful "pipe dream" here a couple of nights ago and created quite a stir among local legal talent with stories of his "inheritance and estate," was put aboard a Washington-bound bus yesterdray by Deputy Sheriff Edgar Lewis.

Tuesday night, Wilson had a local taaxi driver take him about the city to visit at least six local lawyers in his quest for "power of attorney", that would entitle him to collect $800,000 he said his dead brother had left him.

Several attorneys took Wilson's claim with a grain of salt, but at least one lawyer is reported to have taken him seriousyl and had his secrtary wait in his office part of the night for Wilson to return with a promised retainer fee.

The negro told authorities here, "I sometimes get delusions of grandeur."

Market Leaders, With Scattered Exceptions, Show Moderate Losses

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP)—Stock market leaders, with scattered exceptions, suffered moderate reverses today despite Wall street's continued wishful thinking regarding a possible coal strike truce which touched off Wednesday's rally.

The list was down at the start, came back around midday, dipped again and reduced its losses running to two or more points in the final hour.

Declines of fractions to a point or so predominated at the close. Dealings slowed at intervals and transfers of 1,000,000 shares compared with 1,440,000 the day before which were the largest in a month.

Favorable dividends lifted Colgate-Palmolive 2¾ at 49¾ and Continental Baking five-eighths at 20¾. Dow Chemical was up three at 164½ and Johns-Manville two at 130. Engineers Public Service added 2¼ at 28⅛. Plus marks were retained by Woolworth, Goodrich, North American, International Harvester, Standard Oil (N.J.) Westinfgthouse, Allied Chemical and New York Central.

In the casualty division were United States Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Caterpillar Tractor, Douglas Aircraft, Anaconda, American Smelting, Air Reduction, General Electric, Eastman Kodak, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway and Great Northern.

In the Curb, Adolf Gobel was up 1¼ points on an initial disbursement. Laggards were Cities Service, Electric Bond and Share, Barium Steel, Colonial Aairlines and Glen Adlen Coal. Turnover here was 270,000 shares versus 390,000 yesterday.

A handful of rails with gains ranging as high as two points countered a general downward trend in the bond market.

Sales of $4,870,000 compared with $5,160,000 Wednesday.

United States governments showed gains of 1-32 to 3-32 in dealers markets with the Victory Loan 2½s of December 67-72 up 1-32 at 102.4 bid.

Four habeas corpus petitions for releases from Maryland penal institutions were denied Wednesday by Chief Judge William A. Huster, after they were presented by Earl E. Manges.

Charles F. Evans, now serving 18 months in the State Reformatory for Males, sought release on the grounds that he was convicted without having his rights explained to him. He was convicted of larceny April 5, 1945 in Baltimore City Criminal Court.

Joseph Lombardi, who is serving two five year terms concurrently in Maryland House of Correction on charges of robbery sought release on the grounds that he had not been given legal counsel before his trial.

George Dodson, serving three years for attempted house breaking, alleged that he was apprehended several blocks away from the scene of the alleged offense, and sufficient evidence was not presented at his trial to convict him of the charge.

John Lewis Renner, sentenced to serve 44 months in the Maryland House of Correction, for jail breaking, presented evidence that he was sentenced twice for the same count. He alleges that he was sentenced to serve 22 month when tried and later was again brought to trial on the same charge and sentenced to 22 more months.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 5—Well, blow me down if Judy Garland didn't up and sign a new contract with M-G-M right in the teeth of those rumors that she was packing her make up kit and walking out. Judy's a girl who never bothers to kick up a fuss denying false reports. She just goes on her sane little way and when it's time she lets her actions speak for her. She's always said M-G-M was home and when you get right down to it, there's still no place like home, even to a movie star.

Judy Garland

Lined up for her to follow "The Pirate" is "The Good Old Summer Time" in which she gets Gene Kelly as her co-star. But hold on—Gene also authored this original screen story, which makes him the latest actor to turn writer. The Kelly story is good enough to get Arthur Freed for producer.

Talk about wearing out a rock by the constant drip of water—Constance Bennett broke down Brian Aherne's resistance in much the same way when she decided she wanted him to play opposite her in "Smart Woman" at Monogram. Connie was driving back to Alabama to join her husband and at every stop cross country she telephoned Brian to ask him to play the district attorney role. At first he said no, that he had just turned down a similar role because he thought he wasn't suited to it—but after the fifth call he accepted. So Connie, who usually gets what she goes after, continues on her merry way.

Ronald Reagan stopped at the table where Van Johnson was sitting at the Associated Press managing editors dinner, and I heard him say to Van, "Oh, how I envy you doing 'The Life of Monty Stratton.' All my life I've wanted to play that part." Ronnie's very much interested in sports—so much so that he's going to write and direct a series of sports shorts for Warners with Gordon Hollingsworth producing. Now you know an actor of Ronnie's ability doesn't have to go in the shorts departments if he doesn't want to. But he figures he can really enjoy his particular hobby, horseback riding, baseball, etc.

On my desk is a letter from Mrs. Gertrude Warren, who saw "The Yearling" when it was previewed sometime ago. Says Mrs. Warren: "I'm not a movie fan—in fact, I do not allow my children to see many pictures, but I want to say this is one time I am taking my son and daughter to the theatre myself. If Hollywood can turn out as fine a picture as this, why can't we have others just as good. instead of some of the sensational, trashy stuff that has come out of Hollywood this year?" Well, Mrs. Warren, there are not as many stories as good as Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings' book. I know Louis B. Mayer is going to be very grateful to you for your letter. Because "The Yearling" is his pride and joy—and well it might be.

Chatter in Hollywood: Edna Ryan, the girl that Leo Durocher left behind, has a saving sense of humor I receved a note from her signed "an ex-Dodger rooter." She tells me she came to Hollywood very downcast after the unpleasant conclusion of her two-year romance with Leo Durocher. "But," she said, "Hollywood, supposedly a hardboiled town to a stranger, has been wonderfully good to me." She spoke of how kind everyone at 20th had been to her and how William Perlberg, an old friend of Leo's, had personally supervised her test, and of how George Raft and other of Leo's best friends, had gone out of their way to be kind to her. Perhaps the end of her romance is not as bad as she thought.

It never rains but it pours—which is more than a bromide, it's a good old school day quotation—but true where Joan Blondell is concerned. After cooling her heels for almost a year and streamlining her figure again, Joanie is now getting busier than a lady tight rope walker with a bee on her tail. When she finishes "Christmas Eve," which should be around Christmas Eve, she checks onto the Columbia lot to co-star with George Brent in "The Corpse Came C. O. D.," the Jimmy Starr thriller. Joan plays the wisecracking newspaper reporter and Adele Jergens will be the movie star who starts the "corpse" on his way.

Jackie Haley, Jr., aged twelve, will do all right for himself in this world. His dad was very pleased when he heard that son had gotten a paper route and was trying to earn some money for Christmas, but he wasn't so pleased when he found out how Jackie was delivering his papers. Seems that the family chauffuer was driving Jackie around in style while he nonchalantly dropped the papers. "If you're going to earn money ,earn it," advised Jack, Sr., "and do your own delivering."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Franchot Tone has just gifted the so pretty Mrs. T. with new diamond earclips, so you see all is very well with the Tones. . . . When Raven McBride, David Selznick starlet, leaves for the east to day Bill Girard will be at the train to see her off. If they are still of the same mind when she comes back it will be wedding bells. . . . Happy Chandler hosted a dinner at the house of Murphy for some of our friends, the sports writers. Of course, our own Vincent Flaherty was there renewing old acquaintance with Happy. . .Harold Russell is flying here for my next Sunday's broadcast. He's the handless veteran who did such a great job in "The Best Years Of Our Lives." Harold had to get permission to leave school for this special broadcast, which we hope will encourage other boys similarly afflicted; to some of the girls who have been writing asking about Helmut Dantine, he's in Canada making a picture and the girl he writes to most is Pat Walker. . . . Robert W. Orr well known in Hollywood, has just opened his own advertising agency in New York and I want to be one of the many to wish him success. . . Al Barbee, Cocal-Cola magnate, who is never without a pretty girl on his arm, twoing with Dee Day at Mike Lyman's. . . . Celanese Raise Offer Is Enough, Small Declares

Admitting that the cost of living has increased, Fred T. Small, manager of the Amcelle plant, Celanese Corporation of America, and company vice president, asserted yesterday that the recent offer of a five cent raise for employes, coupled with an increase granted last May more than offsets living costs.

Local 1874, TWUA has presented demands for a flat 18 cent increase and refused the offer of five cents per hour made by the company.

The position of the company, according to Small, is that the increase granted last May for the purpose of compensating in advance for a rise in costs and that the clause providing for a reopening last month was inserted in case costs rose beyond the anticipated amount.

Small's explanation followed an announcement by Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, that the Secretary of Labor has been notified that a dispute exists at the plant and that a strike vote will be taken in 30 days. According to William Boyd Coleman, union president, the action was taken under provisions of the Smith-Connally Act. The notice was dated December 4.

The union is seeking an 18-cent an hour increase and rejected the company's five-cent proposal. The third in a series of negotiation sessions is scheduled for Tuesday at 10 a. m.

Under the reopening clause of last May's contract, either party could request a revision in rates providing the average cost of living indexes from May advanced ten points or more. The Bureau of Labor Statistics and the National Industrial Conference Board indexes are used to determine the average. Up to October 15 the average rise was 11.5 points. This represents an increase in living costs since May of 9.5 per cent, Small said.

In response to a question, "What has been the average increase in wages at the Cumberland plant of the Celanese Corporation during the emergency period?" Small replied:

"For the period from January 1, 1941, to date, average hourly rates have increased 53.3 per cent.

This jump in wages, said the manager, compares to an average 39.5 per cent increase in the cost of living for the same period, with the BLS figure being up 45.9 per cent and the NICB figure up 33.2 per cent.

"Have rates of pay increased since V-J Day?" Small was asked.

"Yes. Since V-J Day, average hourly earnings have increased 20.8 per cent. This is represented by an 18-cent an hour increase across the board," Small answered.

"Since V-J Day the average advance in the cost of living has been 10.2 per cent," he ocntinued.

Discussing the effect of price decontrol on cost of living indexes, Small used BLS figures only, and said a further advance of 2.5 points has been noted up to October 15. For the period since January 1, 1941 this "amounts to an additional 2.5 per cent and since V-J Day amounts to an additional 1.9 per cent," he added.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

CHRIS: "They just came in this morning from Jim's place. By the way, have you seen his cattle lately?"

OLD JUDGE: "Yes, I have, Chris. Fattest looking bunch of steers I've seen in some time. I know the reason, too. He's using distillers' dried grains in his corn ration."

CHRIS: "Beats everything, the way those distillers' grains put weight on cattle and hogs."

OLD JUDGE: "Jim says he's never seen anything like it. He figures he saves about 20 per cent of the grain he'd regularly feed, which pays for the distillers' grains and he gets a 4 per cent increase in weight to boot."

CHRIS: "There's a lot of people, Judge, who still don't know what these distillers' grains are doing for the farmers and how they are increasing the country's meat supply. If they did you wouldn't hear any talk about distillers wasting grain. They just don't realize what a high percentage of the grain used to distill alcohol comes back to the farms in the form of these rich protein concentrates."

Picture Of Moose Heart Is Shown In Tri-Towns

By GEORGE W. DADDYSMAN

WESTERNPORT, Dec. 5—"The Child City," a sound moving picture of Moose Heart in Illinois, sponsored by the Loyal Order of Moose was shown last night to an audience at the Piedmont High School auditorium. It showed how the child's health was protected which includes a physical check-up once a year.

Ormal Hoover, governor of Piedmont Lodge No. 1120 of the Moose, introduced Mayor Harold Fredlock of Piedmont, who presided. Mrs. Ormal Hoover, president of the Piedmont Parent-Teachers Association, stated that their organization is very much interested in child welfare.

Vernon A. Staggers, principal of Piedmont High School, asked the question, "What Are We Going To Do About Juvenile Delinquency?" He referred to an article appearing in the Cumberland Evening Times about the crime situation in Cumberland and especially among the youth.

Mr. Staggers called attention to the serious situation in securing teachers and said that more than half a million of them have left that profession since 1939. The average salary in West Virginia for a teacher last year was $1,600.

Edward A. Schofield, membership director of the Moose for Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, also discussed the educational situation and stated that the average street cleaner in some of the large cities are receiving more pay than school teachers.

Mr. Schofield told his audience that he was not only interested in Moose Home but Child Welfare. "We must work out a definite program," he declared.

The picture was also shown to 1,687 school schildren yesterday at Bruce High and Hammond street of Westernport, Luke school and Piedmont school.

Attend Meeting

Suffers Head Injury

Garland Guy suffered a head injury when he was thrown against the windshield while riding in the automobile of Jackie Fazenbaker also of Westernport last night. The accident occurred when the machine struck a tree off the road when he was rounding a curve at the lower end of the straight at Franklin on the George's Creek boulevard near Westernport.

Twenty-four sutures were necessary to close the wound in Guy's head.

Burza Hamlin, chief of police, investigated. The rear part of Fazenbaker's car was damaged considerably.

Garment Firm To Recall 18 Former Strikers

Maurice Milberg, manager of the Cumberland Undergarment Company, reported yesterday that 18 employes who were ordered reinstated at the local garment plant by a decision of Maxwell Copelof, arbitrator in a dispute between the company and the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, will be recalled to their jobs as soon as possible.

The arbitrator ruled, he said, that the employes were "to be returned to the employ of the company and be considered probationary employes for a period of six months, during which time they are to be subject to company discipline." No compensation is to be paid to any of these workers for any time lost by them during their unemployment," he added.

Bank Will Issue 4,000 New Shares Of Stock

Stockholders of the Peoples Bank yesterday morning authorized the issuance of 4,000 additional shares of $25 par value common capital stock. One thousand shares will be distributed to present stockholders as a stock dividend on a basis of one-fourth of one share for each share now held.

The remaining 3,000 shares will be sold at $40 a share and will be offered for sale to the stockholders.

The action, according to Harold R. Fletcher, president, will establish the bank with a $200,000 common capital stock, consisting of 8,000 shares, and a surplus fund of $200,000.

Vote of the stockholders yesterday also authorized retirement of the total outstanding issue of $50,000 three per cent cumulative preferred stock of $25 par value issued as of December 19, 1943, and redeemable on or after December 16, 1946.

Four Divorces Granted In Circuit Court Here

Four divorces decrees were signed yesterday by Chief Judge William A. Huster in Circuit Court.

Divorces were granted to Mrs. Mildred R. Llewellyn from Harry Llewellyn; Mrs. Hazel Widdows from Louis F. Widdows; Mrs. Lorraine A. Miller of Jacksonville, Fla., from Harry C. Miller of Westernport, and Mrs. Gwendolyn Mattes of Circle Inn from Herman C. Mattes.

Mrs. Widdows, who was represented by Harold E. Naughton, was also awarded the custody of three children.

Mrs. Miller, represented by E. M. Horchler, was allowed the right to resume her maiden name of Lorraine A. Masters.

Mrs. Mattes, represented by Edward J. Ryan, was given the right to resume her maiden name of Woods.

Jewel Theft Arrest Solves Another Robbery

The arrest of Doyle McBride, Staunton, Va., in connection with $1,000 worth of jewelry believed stolen from a New York Detective, who was vacationing in Virginia led to the solving of a second robbery last night, local police said.

McBride according to Lt. R. Emmett Flynn, was believed connected with the theft of a 12 gauge pump gun valued at $75 and a radio valued at $60. Both items were recovered along with the jewelry and baggage taken from the detective.

Flynn said McBride had been sending the stolen goods to Cumberland via express with a "pick up later" address. He was arrested Tuesday night after Staunton authorities phoned the name of a local woman, who they believed McBride knew.

The gun was recovered at the home, when police made the arrest, and the radio which had been sold to a local shop was recovered yesterday by Lt. Flynn and Detective Thomas J. See.

McBride was bound over to Lt. Robert Lynn, of the Staunton Police Department last night to be returned on charges of larceny and breaking and entering.

The French purchased their portion of Somiland from Turkey in 1855.

BARNACLES

They're cleaning one of the old pleasure cruisers down in the bay. Giving her a refresher treatment after her war years. Priming her for the tourist trade again.

Ever see a big ship prettied up? Quite an operation. Maybe you think a ship doesn't get demoralized at sea. Guess again.

First they have to rid her of her barnacles, scrape away layer after layer of the tiny shelled creatures which have fastened to her side, thicker and tougher than her hull. It almost takes dynamite to rip her free.

Barnacles. Fantastic little beasts, finger-tip size. Why should they molest the vast power of a sea going monster? How can they cramp her style . . . . leave her crippled unless they are removed? That's one of the riddles. I don't know the answer, but you can take it from any sailor—they do.

The sea has many riddles, but they don't stop there. A man can and does collect barnacles as surely as a fifty thousand ton liner, and slows up as surely in the process.

Human barnacles. You can't see them as you would on the hull of a ship. They are even smaller than those which infest her floating steel . . . . but just as deadly. More deadly, in fact, because the human being rarely recognizes them . . . . rarely stops for a refresher treatment.

What makes human barnacles? They might be made of endless things, tiny things soon forgotten which "did not seem to matter." Small, careless habits. Diminutive prejudices hardly bigger than birdseed at first, yet with the years piling up like cancers. Infinitesimal nutty notions, personal eccentricities, tiresome mannerisms, petty indulgences. Little things, all of them. Little things we accumulate unconsciously from the crib to the coffin. Little things whose existence we we never suspect . . . whose weight we ignore. Little things we never recognize as a handicap.

The years go on and we bravely face life. We tangle with the big obstacles ahead. We're hot with action . . . . just in reach of success—

Then why should something suddenly begin to slow our speed? What's wrong? Who's double-crossing us? Or maybe we're sick? Or could it be in our blood?

Furious and amazed we demand an answer from Fate, but Fate merely gives us the Bronx cheer. Yes, there's something wrong but we'll have to locate it for ourselves. And we won't find the answer in a job that doesn't fit . . . or a wife that doesn't understand . . . . or some bad break we faced as a kid. There is only one place to find the answer, a very accessible place, but few of us look there. For the answer is in ourselves all the time . . . deep hidden in our personal barnacles.

There's the woman who wonders why she can't make friends. There's the man who can't understand why his sales talk doesn't go over. There are the parents who rage because they can't hold their youngsters' respect. Haven't they all worked hard enough, haven't they sacrificed, sweated, put all they had into the job? Yes, they have.

Trouble is, they never counted on the barnacles. Never thought barnacles mattered. But they do matter. Nearly always they are the gap between failure and success.

Terminal Heads Ask More Police Protection

Charles Linberg, manager of the Blue Ridge Bus Terminal, and W. L. Sheehe, manager of the adjoining restaurant, asked Acting Chief of Police B. Frank Gaffney and State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris yesterday for additional police protection at the establishment.

The men were promised all of the co-operation they needed to maintain order in the local terminal, and advised to adopt a firmer policy in handling patrons in the future.

Enlist In Regular Navy

Two local Navy veterans enlisted in the Regular Navy Wednesday as seamen second class, each for four years, it was announced at the local recruiting station.

They are Harold Lee Hendershot, Oldtown road, who previously served 21 months in the Naval Reserve on active duty, and Earl Jacob Bishop, RFD 4, city, who is a veteran of 39 months of previous Navy service.

Local Woman Injured In Fall From Porch

Mrs. Eva Burrall, 51, wife of Raymond Burrall, who was admitted to Allegany Hospital yesterday morning about 10 o'clock after she fell from the porch of her second story apartment at 226 Emily street, was reported in "good" condition yesterday afternoon.

The local woman was leaning on a banister when it gave way, hurtling her to a concrete porch below. She suffered abrasions of the right thigh and right arm and complained of a back injury. Attaches said X-rays were taken to determine the extent of injury.

Pastures Needed In Dairy Farming

No dollar that a farmer spends on the land will yield so much as the dollar spent on permanent pastures, Ralph McHenry, County Agent said in a radio discussion with Albert O'Neal, chairman of County Agricultural Adjustment Administration over WTBO Wednesday.

Pasture land, if adequately fertilized and carefully managed is a cheap feed and no livestock producer can profit without a sound pasture program, he declared in introducing his topic.

O'Neal, who has successfully operated a farm near Union Grove for years, placed much stress on watering, feeding and providing shade for cows that have been turned into the field.

Two types of pasture forage are necessary for an adequate pasture program, McHenry explained . . . permanent pasture and supplementary pasture land. The latter is based upon plants that make a quick growth and grow only one season.

Durnig his farming career, O'Neal said, he has observed that no other type of farming is so neglected as pastures. Only recently have farmers begun to use fertilizer on dairy land, he added.

Unless operators make use of supplementary pasture land for hot weather cows are apt to lose weight and go down in milk, he declared.

Average per capita income in the United States in 1940 was $573 per year. In 1945 it was $1,158.

Japs See Football

The Japanese who adopted American baseball, are now getting a good look at another American institution, football. U. S. soldiers in Japan have organized football teams and the thud of GI toes against pigskin is being heard throughout the islands.

STRAWS IN THE WIND

BROADWAY

By DANTON WALKER

Broadway Beat

For the Interesting If True Department: John Lewis' chief legal adviser, Welly Hopkins, was once given a flat promise (in some New Deal political maneuver) that he would be named Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Department of Justice Criminal Division. . . . Washington bookkeepers burning the midnite oil trying to untangle all the New Deal's financial finagling in anticipation of committee investigations headed by Republican Congressmen. . . . The OPA has around 60 people working on a history of price controls before the big wind-up. . . . Democratic chairman Bob Hannegan ordered by his doctors to avoid politics and telephones for at least a fortnite, will remain on a Florida yacht until his blood pressure is more normal. . . . Several Senators pushing Harold H. Roswell, publisher of the Police Gazette, for a post with the Department of Commerce,' small business department. Roswell's first bout with the bureaucrats was trying to loosen up the newsprint restrictions.

Bob Hannegan

One Republican plum will be the American Consul post at Bermuda, now that the State Department has purchased the million-dollar estate at Tuckerstown, built by E. T. Weir, of Weirton Steel, for his first wife. Surpassing anything in Bermuda in size and luxury (even the Vincent Astor place), the new consulate includes among its embellishments a wine cellar valued at $20,000. . . . The coal strike will drastically reduce holiday travel via railroads, boost airplane service. . . . Future passenger planes may have seats facing the tail, which would be better for emergency landings and better for viewing the scenery. . . . Russia is reported to be having its own coal troubles but in the form of slow-ups, since workers just don't strike in Russia. . . . In New York, even the gag writers are trying to unionize, under AGVA rules.

John Colton's friends will be glad to hear that the playwright who made a fortune with "Rain," "Shanghai Gesture," et al., and lost it all through some legal shennanigan (he wound up a patient at Welfare Island, following a stroke), is recuperating in a wheel chair on a Texas ranch, busy on a new play which he hopefully describes as his "best.". . . Martin Gabel talks of rewriting Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice" as a vehicle for his wife, Arlene Francis, with Shylock presented as a sympathetic character. . . . Moss Hart's newest opus, "Christopher Blake," is a powerful and poignant play, almost flawless in its writing, direction (by the author) and acting. It would be an important drama, even without the dream sequences exploring the tortured mind of a child who must choose between his divorcing parents. . . . "No Exit" still has 'em guessing as to its meanings, but there's one sure thing—you won't be bored by it.

Cafe Notes: On the continental side, we hear that Bernard Lamotte who designed the Parisienne murals at 52nd Street' Cafe Bagatelle (formberly LaVie Parisienne) will use the same theme when he decorates the Waldorf's "Night of France" in February. . . . The old Chateau Moderne reopens as the Chateau Dec. 11 with magician Fred Keating, Monica Boyar, the Dominician songstress and the Herman Chittison trio. . . . The Chateaubriand, which opened the day before Pearl Harbor is celebrating its fifth anniversary this week with the employes throwing a party for their bosses. . . . Rene Paul, the Swiss matinee singing idol, makes his American debut at the Copacabana tomorrow. . . . Gigi, long associated with Le Coq Rouge, is the new maitre d' at Bradley's.

Those who missed Jean Sablon at the Waldorf can catch him at the Versailles Dec. 11 when he starts a four (possibly eight) week engagement. . . . On the American side, happy to report that the three B's of jazz, Bechet, Briuns and Butterfield buzzed Eddie Condon's boite to the bnnth degree. . . . The new Satire Room of the Hotel Sheraton opened last night with an ultra dining and dancing policy. . . . Ted Straeter, who started his musical career 16 years ago, takes his crew into the Bowman Room of the Biltmore Hotel tomorrow night. . . . And, no doubt, in an effort to relieve the coal shortage, Roy Sedley, chief zany of Kelly's Stable's new offering, will raffle off a pail of soft coal at every show starting Friday.

All Sports In Japan

Sports-minded GI's doing occupation duty in Japan have little difficulty keeping busy in their leisure time. They have organized a baseball league, "The American League of Japan," softball, and basketball teams, and have the exclusive use of 15 golf courses, 15 swimming pools, and a number of resort beaches. For winter sports enthusiasts, there is even skiing and skating.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Unmarried Woman's Affair With Army Officer Precipitates Problem

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Although war, of course, always multiplies both the opportunities for illicit romances and the number of people who take advantage of those opportunities, the type of problem described in a desperate letter just received is the same whether in war or peace.

The writer is a young unmarried woman who prefaces her story by saying that except for the usual contributions to war services, the war affected her personal life in no particular.

"It took the peace," she says bitterly, "to alter my way of living. Then I met an officer, and I knew that until he came into my life, everything that had ever happened to me before had been only a period of waiting for him. Within a short time we had become involved in a strange affair; so odd that when I think back to it, I cannot believe it was really myself at all. My love for this man dropped every barrier of reserve and we became intimate.

"He had tried to keep the knowledge of his name and place of living from me, saying how much better it was to keep the mystery of his name to himself so that we would not be disillusioned with each other. He said that the war had dropped all barriers between the sexes, and that everyone did the same thing. For me, it was the first and only time.

"Later, I found out his name, and also where he lived; also that he was married and the father of several children. Wouldn't you think that then I would forget about him? Duty to his family ought to make me forget, but the misery in my heart is so awful. It seems that the war has just begun for me.

"Now what shall I do? Go away? But I like to live where I do. Forget him? No, I love him in spite of all. To spend one year of my life with him, I would gladly give ten. What am I? A moron, perhaps. Or what?

"There is no use going to a doctor or a minister for advice. I would not want to enter into any discussion with them about myself. So because I can remain just a name, I come to you. Don't tell me to look for another man. Don't suggest helping others in order to forget; my life has been spent in that manner too many years.

"Pride goes before a fall. Now this man is ready to continue at home and says he no longer cares what I think as long as his family are kept out of this. Is there any answer to such a problem?

"MARGARET?

You ask for an answer to your problem, Margaret, but you forestal any possible answers by saying, in effect, that you don't want them. "Don't tell me to do this," you say. And "Don't tell me to do that." You are like a sick person who seeks the help of a doctor, but tells him in advance that you don't intend to take the medicine he prescribes. In other words, you want to get over the pain of this unhappy experience, but at the same time you don't want to do any of the things that will aid you in getting over it.

I suspect that, possibly without your actually realizing it, you are hanging on desperately to the thought of this man, unwilling to make a decision to put him entirely out of your life and mind, in the forlorn hope that by some miracle he may come back to you.

But you'll have to be braver than that, Margaret. If you really want an answer to your problem, you'll have to be willing to take the same course other women in your situation have followed, and do the same things they have done to get over an experience of this kind.

For there are no new answers to your problem, I'm afraid. If I knew any, I'd gladly pass them on to you. If I knew any different, surer ways to go about solving such a problem, I'd be the most popular adviser in the world.

For people in trouble are always running around frantically seeking new methods of escape, only to find that there is nothing to do but face the trouble and solve it by the same old ways. And in your case that means, first and most important, resolving to stop making the thought of this man the center of your life; then to go determinedly about your business, spending time with old friends and making new ones, taking up old interests again and seeking new ones; forcing yourself to hold on to your program no matter how you feel, and finding, in time that the pain grows less, and life gradually returns to normal.

That's all you can do, Margaret. There's no other way. But happily it works, if you have the character to try it.

Day's Deer Kills Hit Lowest Mark Of 1946 Season

Only 11 Bucks Reported Bagged In Allegany County; 37 In Garrett

Deer kills in Allegany and Garrett counties hit their lowest point of the 1946 season yesterday with only 11 animals reported bagged in this county and 37 in Garrett.

Kills reported in Allegany County in the first three days set a new record of 54 for the season, topping the previous high mark of 48 set in 1940. Kills reported yesterday boosted the new record to 65.

Seven of yesterday's kills were reported at Lewis's store, Oldtown, and the other four were reported at Shipway's Inn, Green Ridge. None were reported to State Police.

Biggest buck of the day was a nine-point, 170 pounder reported by William Bangs, Westminster, who shot the animal on Town Hill.

The smallest kill was the three-point, 98-pound buck reported by R. M. Haugh, Hagerstown.

Warden John Shewbridge, checker at Lewis's store, Oldtown, reported a 99-pound buck was found along Route 51 opposite the Western Maryland Railway depot at Oldtown yesterday morning.

Shewbridge said game officials are puzzled over the fact that the deer had been cleaned and the horns knocked off before it was discarded.

In Garrett County the sheriff's office at Oakland said they received reports of 24 deer being killed. Seven hunters reported kills at Grantsville and six at Friendsville.

Allegany County checking stations reported the following kills:

LEWIS'S STORE, OLDTOWN (7)

C. L. Twigg, 114 Harrison street, Cumberland, three points, 125 pounds, on Green Ridge.

Calvin Dolan, Oldtown, 8-135, on Green Ridge.

E. D. Widemyer, Hagerstown, 6-110, Orleans section.

R. M. Haugh, Hagerstown, 3-98, Orleans section.

T. W. Hauser, Cumberland, 3-113, on Town Hill.

Donald Crabtree, Oldtown, 6-115, on Town Hill.

William Bangs, Westminster, 9-170, on Town Hill.

SHIPWAY'S, GREEN RIDGE (4)

Henry A. Miller, Pinksburg, 5-105, on Green Ridge.

Chester W. Mann, Little Orleans, 8-125, on Green Ridge.

Stanley W. Muir, Westernport, 5-100, Orleans section.

Charles A. Parks, Landover, 8-134, Town Hill.

May Repeal Tax

BALTIMORE, Dec. 5 (AP)—Harry A. Parr, 3rd, president of the Maryland Jockey Club, said today that he was assured by the Legislative Council that it would reconsider proposed repeal of a special $3,000 per day license tax on Pimlico Race Track.

A Legislative Council subcommittee on taxation recently approved the Sherbow Commission's recommendations on racing taxes excepting for repeal of the Baltimore county levy. The Donaldson Commission on racing revenue also suggested repeal of the tax, which was imposed after the Pimlico area was taken from the Baltimore County and incorporated into the Baltimore City limits.

After Parr protested against continued payment of the Pimlico tax should the Sherbow recommendations for reallocation of revenues be adopted State Senator John B. Funk, chairman of the committee, said the taxation committee would make the special tax a "straight-out issue in the council."

Potomac State Defeats Salem In Thriller

Catamounts Open Season With 46 To 45 Score; Burns' Foul Wins Game

By JOHN L. BORCHERT

KEYSER, W. Va., Dec. 5—The Potomac State Catamounts opened their 1946-47 basketball season tonight with a bang by defeating the highly favored Salem College Tigers 46-45. Big Ed Burns' foul conversion in the final 40 seconds provided the thrill that the crowd of 400 wanted and gave Salem its second defeat in four starts this season.

Salem started off like a "house-on-fire" with big Bobby Doughty pouring three shots through the basket while making good a charity toss to take a 7-1 lead in the first three minutes of play. Potomac State came back with Howard Cassidy's twin-pointer and charity toss along with E. Burns' foul toss pulling the Cats up to 7-5 but Doughty made good a foul throw and dropped in a double-decker to make it 10-5 Salem. The Loughmen began to move and Bob Bruce made it 10-6 with a charity toss and then with forty seconds remaining in the first period Kenny Sims dropped in two buckets to tie it up at 10-all.

Burns' basket and Bill McProuty's twin-pointer and foul toss gave the Cats a 15-10 lead in the first three minutes of the second canto. Salem pulled within two points (15-13) on Nick Okruch's basket and Gene Brissley's charity toss but Ed Burns dumped in three points for the Hilltoppers and Potomac State held on to their advantage to lead 24-14 at the half.

Salem came back strong in the second half. Okruch, John Petrisko, and Fred Wimer caged twin-pointers for Salem while Cassidy and Swick copped charity tosses for the Cats to make the count 26-20 Potomac State. Burns' basket with 5:30 left gave the Cats a 29-21 lead and they hung on to stay ahead 34-28 as the final period opened.

With the Catamounts ahead 39-30 and seven minutes left in the game, Salem scored 10 consecutive points to take a 40-39 lead with 4:45 remaining. Sims put in a foul shot to tie it at 40-all and then Burns made one and Sims made two charity tosses to make it 43-40. P. S. Brissey's foul shot and Sims' basket boosted the count to 45-41 P. S. with 2:30 to go. Brissey hooked a lay-up and Wimer pushed one through the net for the Tigers to tie the score at 45-all with 1:30 remaining. The watch was stopped with 40 seconds to go as big Ed Burns converted his game winning foul, the first of two free throws, and waived the second as the Cats froze the ball to win 46-45.

CAMPFIRE CORNER

By JACK WELCH

SOONERS AND MARKETEERS

Several days ago four Huron, S. D., men were fined $500 each for shipping 251 pheasants to a Chicago club. The club, it developed at the trial, sold the birds at $4.50 for a plate of half a pheasant. One of the offenders pleaded that while he knew he was violating the law there were too many birds around anyway and the farmers wanted them shot.

Jack Welch

This is only one example among many, striking though it is, of how the rights of law-abiding hunters and the public in general are violated by market hunters. There was a time when it was considered no crime to ship wildfowl to the market by the barrel, consign great quantities of jack snipe, woodcocks, grouse and other game to city buyers, and the market hunter invited no social stigma by pursuing his vocation.

Nowadays real sportsmen rightly regard a market hunter as belonging to a somewhat lower order of Mammalia than a predatory house cat or the common striped skunk. When one of the latter raids a bob white's nest or kills a grouse he is only trying to make a living, as nature intended him to do. The market hunter merely shoots for profit.

However, the extent to which market hunting and poaching are tolerated by persons who themselves observe the law is surprising. Loiter for a time in a small town barber shop in deer country during the summer and ten to one you'll overhear tales of how so-and-so knocked over a big buck with his 25-20 or how another so-and-so snagged several bushels of wall-eyes by placing illegal nets at the head of a "thoroughfare."

I was once told in all seriousness by a resort owner that "we like to get our venison before the season opens; the meat isn't as good after the deer have been scared by hunters." Some farm boys and their dads are notorious "sooners" in their own locales, but no one ever does anything about it.

It's impossible to provide enough game wardens to nab every offender. I believe the only solution is education of the younger generation along conservation lines.

Redskins Will Be Crippled In Game Against Giants

Players And Coach Alike However Say They Will Be Ready Sunday

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 (AP)—The wounded Washington Redskins — who claim they're the most injured team in football history—cried from behind their bandages today, "crippled or not, we'll be ready for the Giants."

The Redskins have a pro football game with the Giants in New York Sunday, and they have to win this one if they want a tie for the Eastern division championship of the National League

And if they win, they'll be in something of a rut. For the very next week, they would have to play the Giants again.

This time it would be for the Eastern title and the dubious privilege of meeting Chicago's bad Bears for the league championship.

The Redskins' hospital chart today showed:

Twenty-four in bandages.

Two (back Wilbur Moore and end Doug Turley) certain to miss Sunday's game.

Six hale and hearty.

Yet in spite of this carnage, Coach Turk Edwards said, "we'll be in the best shape we've been all season."

Which should give you an idea of what kind of shape the Redskins have been in all year.

Every member of the squad has been hurt at least once.

The three fullbacks, Jacque Jenkins, Frank Akins and Salvatore Rosato, have proved the most fragile. The Redskins had to play two games without any fullback at all as these three turned up injured simultaneously

One question worries local fans: what about Sammy Baugh, the old pass master?

Sam has found that the tenth year in pro ball is the hardest.

Plagued by injuries, embarrassed by poor pass catchers, harassed by rival linemen as his protection fizzled, Baugh has had his sorriest season.

The last two games, although feeling pert, Baugh has played second fiddle to Jim Youel of Iowa.

Is Baugh on the way out at last?

Sunday's game should give the answer. In the meantime, one Redskin official may have dropped a clue to management's position.

"Baugh," he said, "is a great money player."

George Trautman Named President By Minor Leagues

Executive Vice President Of Detroit Tigers Succeeds Judge Bramham

By RUSS NEWLAND

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5 (AP) — Minor League Baseball reached into the Majors today and came up with a fighting new president, George Trautman, whose first act was to declare ruthless war on gambling in the sport.

Only candidate proposed and unanimously elected, the 52-year-old executive vice-president of the Detroit Tigers leaves a position at a reported yearly salary of $36,000 to head the 49-league National Association, a position paying $25,000 annually.

Trautman succeeds Judge William G. Bramham, voluntarily retired taking cognizance of Judge Bramham's recent warning that gambling has crept into the affairs of at least one Minor League Club and was being investigated in others. President-Elect Trautman promised swift and drastic crackdowns on any cases brought to his attention of players associating with gamblers or betting on games and said every effort would be made to keep all known gamblers from the parks.

Baseball's High Commissioner, A. B. (Happy) Chandler, attending the meeting of the National and American Leagues which opened today, sent congratulations to Trautman upon the latter's election.

Referring to the Majors, Chandler said "public confidence never has been higher than now." He declared there had not been a hint of gambling in the Major Leagues since he took office.

As the new head of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, Trautman will rule over a far-flung empire for a five-year term.

A resident of Columbus, Ohio, and a graduate of Ohio State University Trautman said he would transfer the National Association office to his home town soon after the first of the year. The organization's headquarters have been in Durham, N. C., Judge Bramham's home, since the latter took office in 1932.

Judge Bramham will be retained as consultant, available to the new president, on a $10,000 yearly lifetime tenure.

Immediately before Trautman's election, Frank Lawrence, president of the Portsmouth, Va., club, offered a resolution proposing that the National Association be "dissolved" and recommending that Commissioner Chandler be petitioned to take over the business affairs of the Minor Leagues as a body. The resolution was tabled indefinitely by a unanimous vote.

After the election of Trautman, National Association Promotion Director Art Ehlers resigned his post, a $10,000-a-year job. Ehler's name had been mentioned previous to the election as a possible successor to Judge Bramham.

Tommy Mont and Fred Davis, of Cumberland, and Ed Eichhorn, of Lonaconing, are members of the University of Maryland basketball team which launches its season by playing West Virginia University's Mountaineers at Morgantown on Saturday, December 14.

Mont, former Allegany High School athlete, won basketball letters at College Park in the 1941-42 and 1942-43 seasons.

Davis, who is 6 feet, 4 inches and weighs 205 pounds, played at Fort Hill High School.

Eichhorn, of Lonaconing, is a 6-foot-2 ballhawk.

Maryland is being coached this year by Burton Shipley. It will be his twenty-fourth season as cage mentor.

Two other tilts, both at College Park, will be played before the holidays, with Western Maryland and Johns Hopkins on December 17 and 18.

Scott Is Elected Captain Of Navy

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 5 (AP)—Navy football team center Richard "Dick" Scott of Highland Falls, N. Y., was unanimously elected captain of the 1947 squad by his teammates, Capt. E. B. Taylor, Navy director of Athletics, announced today.

Scott, one of the nation's outstanding centers, played a bang-up game throughout the season, showing up especially well on defense.

His trained toe also was put to service several times punting for the Navy team, which though eight times defeated, threw a scare into the mighty Army eleven in the annual service grid classic.

Scott, 22, was on the list of honorable mentions in the All America choices this year.

Gardnar Mulloy Gives Bromwich Terrific Battle

By GAYLE TALBOT

MELBOURNE, Australia, Dec. 5. (AP) — America's Davis Cup stock spiralled upward tonight in the wake of a gallant five-set stand by the veteran Gardnar Mulloy against Jack Bromwich, the terror of the Antipodes, in the semi-finals of the Victorian Tennis Championships.

Although the doubles expert from Miami, Fla., finally was forced to yield in the cool of the evening, it was not until he had demonstrated that Bromwich is not quite the invincible tennis player they had imagined him to be.

A few breaks toward the close of the gruelling match and Mulloy could easily have unseated the star upon whom Australia is banking to retain the International trophy in the challenge round beginning Dec. 26. Bromwich finally emerged on top by scores of 6-0, 6-4, 7-9, 3-6, 6-4.

Ted Schroeder of Glendale, Calif., who defeated Australia's Bill Sidwell, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, in the day's other singles semi-finals, must, in the face of Bromwich's narrow squeak today, be given an even chance of trimming him in the finals Saturday.

Additional strong light will be thrown on the Davis Cup picture in tomorrow's doubles final, in which Mulloy and Billy Talbert of Wilmington, Del., the U. S. champions, meet Bromwich and his Australian partner, Colin Long.

The Americans, who are fighting hard to gain the Cup doubles assignment, are confident of their ability to win. Talbert early today had a severe sore throat and could not talk above a whisper but was much improved tonight.

Sammy Snead Is Out In Front In Miami Tourney

By WILBUR JENNINGS

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 5 (AP) — Sammy Snead, the British Open Champion, waded into a high wind today to soundly spank the 6,310-yard Miami Springs golf course with a five-under-par 65 to take a two-stroke lead in the $10,000 Miami Open Golf Tournament.

The top players in the near-record field of 239 were all accounted for.

"Ah shucks," commented the Hot Springs, Va., hillbilly, "that wasn't nothing." But the huge gallery said he held a hot putter on the greens and his drives were long and true.

Closest behind him was Herman Barron, White Plains, N. Y., and Al Smith, of Danville, Va., who posted three-under par 67s.

Tied for third position at 68 were Ben Hogan, Hershey, Pa.; Herman Keiser, Akron, O.; John Palmer, Baden, N. C.; Sammy Byrd, Detroit; Jimmy Demaret, Houston, Tex.; E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, Little Rock, Ark.; Jim Ferrier, Chicago; and Charles Ward, of London, England.

A stroke back at 69 were L. Broward, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Doug Ford, New York City; John Barnum, Chicago; R. E. Barnes, Kansas City, Kan.; Ellsworth Vines, Los Angeles; Chick Harper, Detroit; Harry Todd, Dallas, Tex.; and Henry Ransom, of Ravinia, Ill.

Grouped at par 70 were Harold Oatman and John J. O'Donnell, both of Norfolk, Va.; Johnny Revolta, Evanston, Ill.; Ed Oliver, Wilmington, Del.; George Schoux, Mamoroneck, N. Y.; Clyde Usina, West Palm Beach, Fla.; and Fred Haas, Jr., of New Orleans.

Defending champion Henry Picard, of Cleveland, O., posted a two-over par 72.

Marcel Cerdan To Make U. S. Debut

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP)—Marcel Cerdan, a squat sailor from Casa Blanca who holds the French middleweight crown, makes his delayed American debut tomorrow night in Madison Square Garden against Georgie Abrams, of Washington, a leading contender for the world 160-pound title. A crowd of about 17,000 is expected for the 10-round bout.

Highly publicized because of his victories in various interallied tournaments in North Africa during the war, the Casablanca boxer originally had been slated to visit the United States earlier. His arrival was held up by transportation difficulties.

Cerdan attracted more than usual interest by his unique training routine, calling for no more than two rounds of boxing a day.

The rugged invader, whose knowledge of the English language is restricted to the value of dollars and cents, had never lost a decision, never been knocked out or even knocked off his feet. His two losing bouts in 96 were on fouls, something that can't happen here.

Before the war Cerdan defeated some welterweights and middleweights whose names were familiar here, such as Cleto Locatelli and Saverio Turiello. Last summer in Paris he outpointed the clever Holman Williams and in his last start, Oct. 20, he knocked out the Polish fighter, Pankowiak in five rounds.

If Cerdan can whip Abrams, he hopes to establish himself as the foremost challenger for the world crown which Tony Zale will defend against Rocky Graziano March 21. The last Frenchman to hold the 160-pound crown was Marcel Thil in 1932.

Levitt To Explain Fine Points Of Basketball At YMCA Clinic

Free Throw Champion Will Give Demonstration Here Dec. 21

Fine points of basketball, such as only come from an expert in the sport, will be explained, demonstrated and pictured to a large gathering of coaches, players and basketball enthusiasts when "Bunny" Levitt, world's free throw champion, holds one of his nationally famous basketball clinics Saturday, December 21 at the Central YMCA.

The clinic is under the sponsorship of the Central YMCA and the Western Maryland and Eastern West Virginia District Board of Approved Basketball Officials. There is no admission charge.

Served as PT Instructor

"Bunny" served in the army from 1942 until after V-J Day. He organized the physical training program at Sheppard Field, Texas, and completed his tour of duty as PT instructor for convalescents at Mitchell Field, New York.

The basketball authority, who is now making a tour of the country, is scheduled to give a thorough display of the game and it is expected that a record crowd of those interested in basketball will attend.

Levitt is an outstanding figure in basketball and holds the world's free throw championship—499 consecutive free throws without a miss. As a result of this accomplishment he was featured in Ripley's "Believe It Or not." In a later exhibition, he shot free throws for 7½ hours, missing two out of 871 trials. He has given exhibitions of his skill throughout the United States travelling as a main attraction with the leading professional basketball teams.

Aside from his basketball ability, he is also a wizard on the handball court, having won many championships in nation-wide competition.

The personable "Bunny" also organized the only completely left-handed softball team in the world and his behind-the-back-pitch is something to behold as it whizzes with deadly accuracy into the catcher's mitt.

Purpose Of Clinic

The sole purpose of this clinic is to promote more interest in basketball and to simplify teaching methods so that young players as well as seasoned players, can derive the most out of the game. Everything in his repertoire is fundamental, and in no way disrupts or interferes with any coaching system.

In "Bunny's" clinic he demonstrates and explains in detail basket shooting, as well as passing, dribbling, pivoting, offense and defense. In the demonstration he will use two teams. Last but not least, Bunny will give a discourse on rule interpretations.

In addition to his personal work, he will show movies of championship basketball, featuring the leading collegiate and professional teams.

Why The Maritime Strike Issue Centers On Membership Of Masters

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The battle between ship owners and unions has brought to the foreground the sea captain, the man who sails the merchant ships that carry the American flag around the world.

The captain, or master as he is frequently called, is the undisputed and absolute boss of his ship when away from home port. His word is law, to be used with discretion, for passengers and crew alike.

He is responsible for their comfort and safety and for the safety of his ship, whether it is a small freighter costing perhaps $500,000 or a luxury liner such as the America, which cost approximately $17,000,000.

His responsibilities, like his power, are enormous. Both are a tradition of the sea. They are the reason why the owners and the unions conflict.

The Union Demand

The deadlock which paralyzed the nation's maritime industry centered largely around two demands of the AFL Masters, Mates and Pilots Union: preferential employment and maintenance of membership for masters.

In substance this would require management to hire only union masters and to discharge masters who were either not members of the union, or who dropped their membership or were expelled for some reason.

The operators, spearheaded by those on the Pacific coast, refused to accept these demands. Briefly their position is that the operator should have a free hand to hire any master he desires and that this master should be responsible only to management.

The union says it is perfectly willing for the operators to choose their own captains, but it wants the captains either to be or to become union members.

High Qualifications Needed

To become a deep sea merchant captain, a man must have many qualifications, he must be thoroughly versed in such rudiments of the profession as seamanship, navigation, communications and maritime law.

In addition he is required to know marine insurance, something of international law, federal and foreign regulations for the carrying and unloading of various types of cargo. If he is operating under a charter, he must be completely familiar with all of its provisions.

If he is the captain of a passenger-carrying the vessel, he is required of necessity to be something of a diplomat—to see that the passengers are satisfied and enjoying their voyage. On large liners, in particular, he must be a good administrator to assure that his ship functions smoothly, efficiently and economically.

Business Ability Traditional

In the past, the yankee clipper ship captains from New England were considered as sharp "horse traders." Although world conditions have changed considerably since then, merchant skippers today—particularly those on "tramp" steamers—still have to be businessmen.

Merchant captains in many instances can sign on behalf of the owner for ship and cargo. They can authorize repairs costing thousands of dollars.

They are required at all times to protect the interests of their owner, as well as to look after the interests of the crew both afloat and in foreign ports. They are required to take an oath of allegiance to the United States.

Networks Direct Attention To Christmas Season

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—The calendar having turned itself pretty well into December, six days to be specific,, Friday's networks will begin to direct their attention to the Christmas season ahead. The first network to do so is MBS, which is arranging quite a regular series of preview programs.

One of these will be displayed in the Faith of Our Time daily series at 10:15 a. m. The Christmas special is to be titled "Faith," to be filled with sacred music and poems. The narrator is to be Dr. R. S. Meadowcroft, of New York, with Harvey Harding as organist.

The Friday World's Great Novels of NBC at 11:30 having changed its mind, rather suddenly, into Thackery's "Vanity Air" instead of "Jean Christope," will have the second part of the six-episode broadcast of this widely read book.

Eric Haas, editor of the Socialist Labor publication, "Weekly People," will be the interview guest of NBC at 10:45. Basis of the questions will be found in this one: "Is a truce between capital and labor possible?" The queries will be put by Leif Eid, in Washington, to Haas, in New York.

Matt Dennis who both sings and composes, will drop around for the Meredith Willson presentation of CBS at 7:30. Dennis also arranges for the Dick Haymes Show. Paulena Carter, a 16-year-old pianist, also is a part of this series on a regular basis.

The United Nations Serenade, a 1:30 p. m. daily feature on MBS, will bid goodbye with Friday's broadcast.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 6

Changes in programs as listed are due to corrections by networks made too late to incorporate.

All times PM eastern standard. To change to central standard subtract one hour; to mountain standard subtract two hours.

Times listed are those supplied by networks. Relay times by local stations, may vary in some instances.

TRAVEL TO THE ORIENT
with the famous
6th Infantry Division
ALL EXPENSES PAID AND $90 PER MONTH

The 6th Infantry Division, U. S. Army, known from its insignia as the "Red Star Division," had an impressive war record. After heavy action in New Guinea, the unit moved on to play a vital role in clearing the Japs from Luzon. Stationed today in Korea, the 6th is continuing its great record as a peacetime occupation force.

Young men who can measure up to high Regular Army standards, and who enlist for three years, now have an opportunity to join this famous division, on duty in the Orient, following initial training in the U. S.

There's no finer life anywhere for a soldier. Excellent living conditions and recreation facilities. Sightseeing and sports are encouraged. The work is interesting, educational and of vital importance to world peace. Overseas pay starts at $90 a month for a Private, plus food, clothing, quarters, medical and dental care and other benefits. Enlistments open to men 18 to 34 inclusive (17 with parents' consent). Rieve Says Labor Needs More Than Living Cost Boost

TWUA Chief Calls For Constructive Solution To Mine Strike

Emil Rieve, general president of the Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, declared last night the TWUA emphatically rejects any hint the union will be satisfied with wage increases only to the extent of increases in the cost of living.

To do so, Rieve explained, would freeze the worker's status. We want to increase the standards of labor, not freeze it, he declared in a speech at the Tenth Anniversary celebration of Celanese Local 1874, TWUA, at the Clary Club.

The TWUA official referred to a statement by Fred T. Small, manager of the Amcelle plant of the Celanese Corporation of America, that the five-cent an hour wage boost offered employes at the plant, when coupled with increases last May, more then offsets the rise in the cost of living.

"Let me state frankly they had better stop kidding, come down to earth and talk about a substantial increase because we need it, want it and are going to get it," Rieve said.

Warns of Depression

It is really a question, Rieve said, as to whether American industry can afford not to give wage increases for if the workers cannot purchase the goods industry produces we will have a depression.

Rieve termed it "a national tragedy" that on the first peacetime Christmas there must be dimouts. Whatever they say about the man, (Lewis) the fact is that the miners remember that in 1930 and 1932 their children looked into garbage pails to sustain life and are determined such a thing shall not happen again.

Nobody, he said, offered any solution except "Let's Break the Strike." "Neither have I heard any solution offered by the United Mine Workers as to how to deal with the strike," he added.

Rieve said he hoped American industry, for its own good would avoid a series of strikes next spring, declaring industry "is making more money than is good for it."

We don't know what the new Congress is going to do, but if it does 10 per cent of what some members say will be done the situation will be "intolerable".

Rieve admitted the lot of labor is not worse at the present than before the war. "It is better and that's the way we want it", he added.

Terms Demands Modest

William Pollock, TWUA secretary treasurer, in his talk before some 200 members of the 8,500 member local, said big business is back in the saddle, the honeymoon is over and that labor will have to show its mettle in the years to come.

He termed "modest and necessary" the demands the union is making in the textile industry to restore wages levels wiped out by the dropping of controls.

Referring to wage negotiations now being conducted at the Amcelle plant, Pollock said he hoped the wage talks may be settled satisfactorily but said the local may again have to "hit the picket line" to obtain its demands.

James A. Dundon, first permanent president of Local 1874 and now a TWUA regional director, said the local has made more progress in its first ten years than any other labor organization and eulogized the founders of the Celanese local.

To Joseph J. Barley, business manager, was given the honor of cutting the anniversary cake. James Blackwell, Baltimore, TWUA representative, was toastmaster.

Steel Worker Is Injured In Fall

Taylor Lee Brown, 50, 506 Greene street, was reported in a "good" condition last night in Allegany Hospital where he was admitted yesterday at 10:15 a. m. for treatment of injuries suffered in a fall from a scaffold.

The local steelworker, injured while at work on an addition to the People's Clothing Store, 77 Baltimore street, suffered lacerations above the left eye and left cheek bone and received X-rays to determine the extent of possible skull and left forearm injuries.

Miss Eleanor Smyth, 29, 440 Williams street, a clerk at the Woolworth 5 and 10 Cent Store, was treated in Memorial Hospital yesterday at 10:30 a. m. for a laceration over the eye. She told attaches she bumped her head on a radiator when she fell at the head of the stairs at the local store.

Charles Sturtz, 38, 133 Reynolds street, was treated in Allegany Hospital yesterday at 9 p. m. for a two-inch laceration on the right hand. He said he was hurt while using a pen knife.

MISS BAIRD IS APPOINTED TO NEW POSTAL POSITION

Miss Bessie R. Baird, 324 Cumberland street, a regular clerk at the Cumberland Post Office since December 1, 1910, has been promoted to clerk in charge of the finance section, effective December 16, local postal officials announced yesterday.

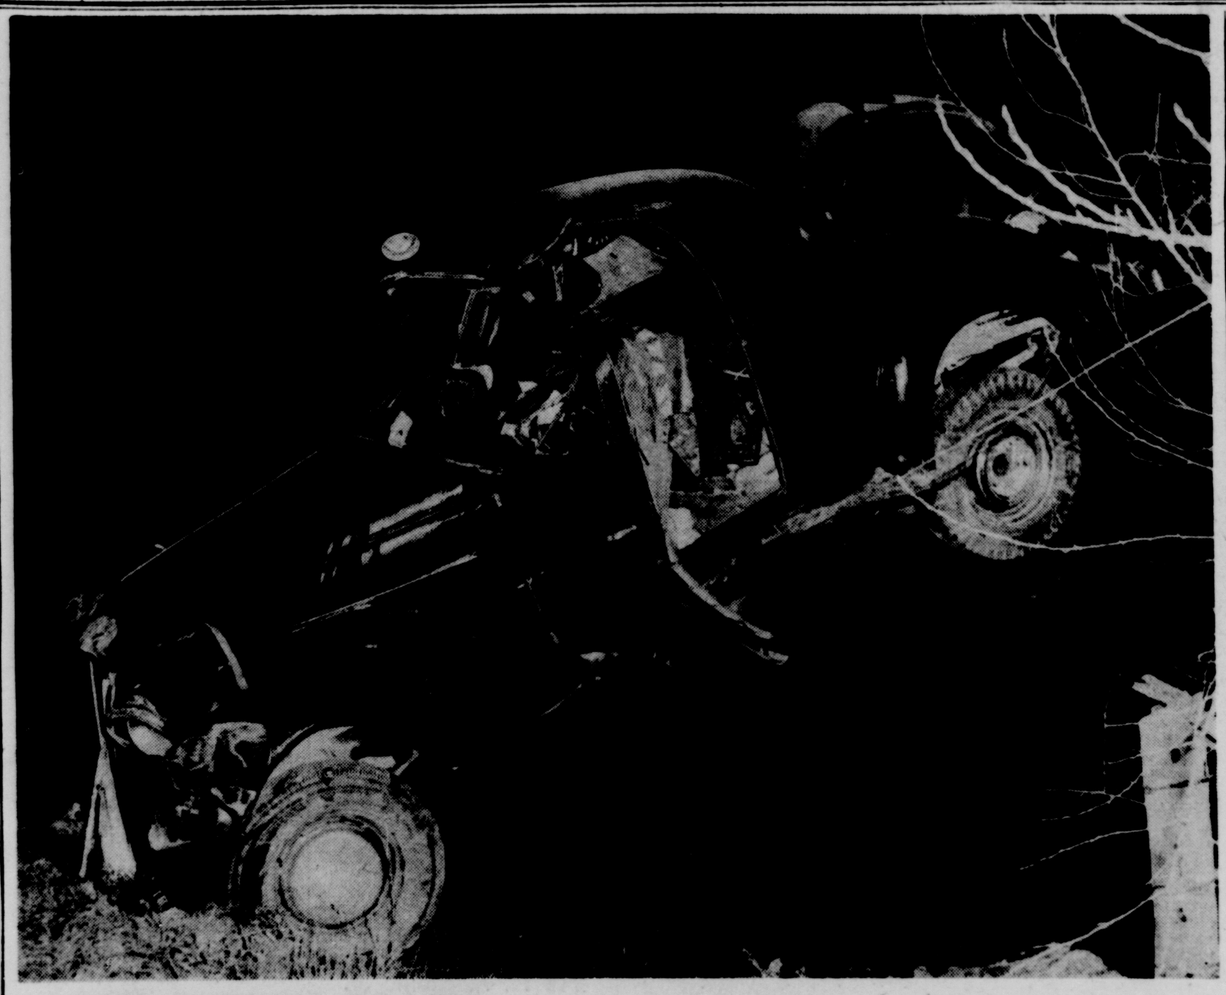
Appointment to the position, which has just been created, was made by the first assistant postmaster general in Washington, D. C.

A native of Frostburg, Miss Baird resided in Eckhart Mines for a number of years before beginning work July 1, 1907, as a substitute clerk at the old Post Office, located in the Public Safety Building.

Before beginning her career with the Post Office, she taught school for several years in Eckhart Mines and Westernport. Her grandfather, the late Joseph Wamsley, was postmaster at Eckhart for many years.

With the exception of two years handling general delivery mail at the old Post Office, Miss Baird has been a regular clerk in the finance section, handling stamps, money orders, postal savings, bonds, war stamps and renting of post office boxes.

In her new position, she will supervise the section, which employs approximately five persons.



...AND SUDDEN DEATH—Two youths were killed and two were badly injured when their automobile (shown above) crashed against a power pole near Glass's Tavern on the McCoole-Westernport road at 12:28 a. m. yesterday. A fifth youth walked away from the accident and required no hospitalization. The rear end of the car, a 1937 Chevrolet coupe, became entangled in electric wires when the pole was snapped off and was suspended in the air at a reight of about 10 feet. The body of Robert Dancer, 27, Piedmont, was not removed from the machine until 3:30 a. m. when the vehicle was freed from the wires and lowered to the ground after electric power was shut off.

Keller Will Head Local Motor Club In Coming Year

Charles L. Kopp Outlines Program Of Safety Education

The Western Maryland Motor Club elected officers for 1947 last night at a meeting where members heard Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, outline three major points necessary in vehicle safety education.

Officers elected, who will be installed at the January 9 meeting in Queen City Hotel are Hugo Keller, president; George Earling, reelected vice president for the fourth term; Kinsey A. Wolfe, treasurer, reelected for the fourth term, Miss Iren Reuschel, secretary, and William H. Geppert, attorney, both reelected for the second term.

Byer Becomes Director

J. Walter Byer, retiring president, who declined the nomination for another term, will automatically become the 22nd member of the board of directors, which was also elected last night. Byer's term on the board will be for two years.

Directors who were reelected are Harold Bloom, J. L. Towler, George Earling, Daniel D'Amicol, Mayor Thomas S. Post, Mrs. Thomas W. Koon, Kinsey A. Wolfe, Mrs. Mary Brewer, G. G. Townsend, R. H. Yokum, B. V. Welsh, H. Keller, W. H. Geppert, C. L. Grosh, Mrs. Mary Simons, C. E. Gainer, and A. J. Walsh.

New members elected to the board are C. A. Jewell, John T. Fey, William L. Wilson, Jr., Frank Wiebel, and Byer, whose position is automatic.

Kopp, in his speech pointed out that 100 persons are killed each day because of accidents and called attention to the fact that the rate was four each hour. A definite program of education is needed in the schools, the superintendent said, to teach children:

1—To be observant. 2—The effects of violations of physical laws. 3—The right attitude toward others.

Youth Great Offenders

A great majority of the offenders are young men, possessed with a new found power which they get in back of a wheel to drive a car, Kopp said. With a greater understanding of the right attitude toward others many of these youths would be more respectful and thus limit the number of accidents greatly.

The job of training children in school to be respectful of law and order, is being made difficult, however, Kopp declared by men in high authority who continuously defy the government.

Other speakers on the program included Commissioner of Police and Firemen William V. Keegan, who recalled the history of the Schoolboy Patrol and cited the advantages it has accomplished. Sgt. John Doud, Maryland State Police, told members that the job of preventing accidents is based on a threefold plan which he explained as engineering, education and enforcement.

He pointed out that during the present year when a campaign for "safe and sane driving" was being conducted over July 4 and Labor Day, not one serious accident was reported on either holiday.

Mayor Post Speaks

Other persons called on for brief remarks, were Mayor Thomas Post, William H. Geppert, and William L. Wilson. Jr. Byer was master of ceremony.

The program which was preceded by a dinner in the Queen City Hotel ballroom, was arranged by Mrs. Mary Brewer, chairman of the social committee, assisted by C. E. Gainer.

Byer gave a brief talk after the election of officers and was given a vote of thinks by attending members for the "faithful service" he has given the organization during his four years in office.

Members also approved a motion to send flowers to the home of Dr. Thomas W. Koon, former mayor of Cumberland, who died suddenly yesterday morning. Mrs. Koon, who was reelected to the board of directors, is his widow.

Authorities Continue Investigation Of Fatal Accident Near McCoole

Harris Says No Charges Will Be Filed Until Probe Is Completed

State Police and county authorities were continuing their investigation last night into the cause of an accident near Glass's Tavern, three-quarters of a mile from McCoole on the McCoole-Westernport road, which took the lives of two youths and injured two others when their automobile snapped off a power pole at 12:28 a. m. yesterday. A fifth rider walked away from the crash.

State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris went to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W. Va., last night and obtained statements from Leo J. Stemp, 22, Piedmont, and from Russell Moorehead, 23, Westernport, who were injured in the accident. Questioning of other witnesses will be continued in Harris's office today.

The state's attorney said Stemp told him he was the driver of the car in which James T. Hughes, 22, and Robert L. Dancer, 27, both of Piedmont, were killed. He said no charges will be preferred until the investigation is completed.

Necks Were Broken

According to Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, Hughes suffered a broken neck, and a fratcured spine. Dancer, he said, suffered fractures of the skull, neck, jaw and left forearm and also sustained a puncture wound of the scalp and lacerations of the left hand.

Both Were War Veterans

The condition of Moorehead and Stemp iin Potomac Valley Hospital was reported to be "satisfactory" last night. Moorehead suffered a chest injury and two fractured ribs. Stemp suffered lacerations of the neck. Combs went to the hospital with the injured men but did not require treatment.

State Police said they believed the car, headed toward McCoole from Westernport, was traveling at high speed when it left the road about 150 feet from the pole. Marks at the scene indicated the automobile, a 1937 Chevrolet coupe, passed over a concrete culvert before it struck the pole. Marks on the car indicated the front top of the car hit the pole.

It was surmised that when the pole was snapped off, the wires fell and the car bounced into the air, the rear end landing on top of the wires.

Riding In Trunk

The state's attorney said he was informed Hughes and Moorehead were riding in the trunk of the car and that Stemp, Dancer and Combs were riding in the front seat.

Authorities said all of the young men but Dancer probably were thrown from the car when the crash occurred.

Electric power at Keyser was disrupted for half an hour and service in several nearby communities was disrupted momentarily when the automobile came into contact with the wires.

Because of the electrical charge, the automobile and Dancer's body could not be moved until power was shut off. Workmen of the Potomac Light and Power Company succeeded in freeing the machine from the entangling wires at 3:30 a. m.

State Trooper Walter Wilt is investigating.

Hughes was a son of Mrs. Josephine (O'Neill) Hughes and the late James W. Hughes. Besides his mother he is survived by a sister, Miss Ruth Hughes, at home. He was a native of Westernport and lived in the Tri-Towns all his life except for four years in Maysville, W. Va., where he attended public school. He served three years with the Army as an infantryman and during the fighting on the Anzio Beachhead was wounded. He was discharged March 11 as a private, first class.

The veteran was employed at the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company. He was a member of St. Peter's Catholic church, Westernport, Henry Hart Post No. 1411, VFW, of Cumberland, and Victory Post No. 155, American Legion, at Westernport.

Mayor Asks Heskett To Prepare Ordinance

Mayor Thomas S. Post said last night he asked City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett yesterday to prepare an ordinance providing for smoke control of all industries in Cumberland.

He said Heskett did not indicate how long it will take him to prepare the ordinance, but added that it will be presented to the City Council sometime after his return from a visit to Cuba. The mayor leaves this afternoon for a week's trip to Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

County Board May Be Asked To Fill Two Jobs

Appointments made by Commissioners Charles N. Wilkinson, Jr., and William H. Lemmert at the first meeting of the new Board of Allegany County Commissioners are still causing considerable comment around the court house and other circles where politics are discussed.

Rumor was floating around yesterday that at least two of those appointed to county jobs will not accept them. One of these is the appointment of William H. Jenkins as county auditor and the other is John H. Hendley of Frostburg, named custodian of the Court House.

Jenkins, who lives at 217 Saratoga street, and has been employed in the register of wills office for the past six years, was an applicant for the post of auditor. Wilkinson and Lemmert voted for him and Commissioner James Holmes voted for another applicant W. R. King, this city.

Jenkins was contacted last night and he declined to comment on his refusal of the appointment, saying he would have no statement to make until after the regular meeting of the board today. While he would neither confirm nor deny refusal of the appointment, for publication, it is believed he intends to remain where he is, as no effort is being made to appoint anyone to replace him in the office of register of wills, it was indicated.

Hendley was contacted last night and asked if he would accept the appointment as custodian. He told a News representative that he is not particularly interested in the job, "but has until Friday" to decide. Hendley is finance commissioner of the town of Frostburg and is employed at the Big Savage Refractories Company at Zihlman.

Court House attaches said yesterday Hendley was expected at the Court House to assume his duties, yesterday, but did not put in an appearance. William Izat, who resigned the post to accept appointment as deputy sheriff has been "doing double duty," awaiting the arrival of a successor.

Commissioner Wilkinson, contacted by telephone at his home last night, had no comment to make about either report. He said he had not been notified if Jenkins and Hendley are not accepting their posts, and added that something might develop at the regular meeting today.

Probationary Test Set

H. Clifford Spiker, a member of the Cumberland Board of Civil Service Commissioners, said yesterday that a probationary examination will be held today at 8 p. m. in the city clerk's office for three members of the police force who are completing their year's probationary period.

They are Joseph H. Stitcher, Paul M. Crabtree and George E. Pfieffer, and their probationary periods will end December 15, 18 and 19, respectively.

Heavy Mailing Of Parcel Post Packages Noted

Postal Windows Remain Open As Embargo Deadline Approaches

Post Office officials reported last night that the number of parcel post packages handled during the day and through the evening was "well above normal," and that two parcel post windows were open most of the time.

With the announcement that the embargo limiting parcel post packages to five pounds, as compared to the previous 70 pounds, would go into effect at 12:01 a. m. today, many Cumberlanders sent off large packages earlier than they had planned.

The parcel post windows remained open until 9:15 p. m., 15 minutes later than was originally planned, to accommodate lines of persons waiting to mail packages, officials said.

It was previously announced that the parcel post division would accept packages until 9 p. m. yesterday, as a special service to residents of the Cumberland area. The usual closing time is 6 p. m.

Station "A" on Virginia avenue remained open until 7:30 p. m., but no rush to mail large parcel post packages was reported. Sub-station No. 1, located in a confectionery at 457 North Centre street, and Sub-station No. 2, in a grocery store at 501 Baltimore avenue, remained open until the usual closing time of those establishments.

Exemptions Listed

The embargo, imposed because of the coal strike which limits fuel for normal operation of trains, states that no packages will be accepted in excess of five pounds in weight, 18 inches in length or 60 inches in length and girth combined, until further notice. Items excepted from the embargo are as follows:

1—Live day-old chicks and other poultry poults, as provided in Par. 2, Section 594, P. L. & R.

2—Cut flowers, seeds, plants and other nursery stock.

3—Eggs, butter and other perishable food products normally accepted for mailing.

4—Serums, medicines, drugs, surgical instruments and dressings and hospital supplies.

5—Shipments of money in the registered mail.

6—Local parcels and all local matter for delivery on local rural and star routes.

7—Parcels addressed to members of the armed forces and other persons served through the Army Postoffices and Fleet Postoffices.

8—Second class matter and mats for newspaper and magazine publications.

9—Films.

"During the emergency", the directive continued, "acceptance of international parcel post packages will be limited to those containing serums, medicines, drugs, surgical instruments and dressings and hospital supplies.

"Acceptance of mail for foreign destinations, except medicinal parcels listed above, will be restricted to first class articles weighing not in excess of four pounds six ounces —prints, samples, small packets and commercial papers. However, the domestic restrictions will apply to all mails for Canada, Mexico and to territories and possessions in the United States."

Dr. Thomas W. Koon Rites Will Be Held Here Sunday Afternoon

Well Known Physician And Former Mayor Dies Of Heart Ailment

Funeral services for Dr. Thomas W. Koon, 76, a member of the State Industrial Accident Commission, 11-times mayor of Cumberland and one of Western Maryland's best known physicians, who died unexpectedly at the Queen City Station about 5 o'clock yesterday morning, will be conducted Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home, 221 Baltimore avenue.

Dr. Hixon T. Bowersox, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, will officiate. The body will be placed in the mausoleum of Rose Hill Cemetery.

Active pallbearers, all nephews of Dr. Koon, will be Dr. Lorraine Hutson, Paul Hutson, Jr., Glenn, Richard and Guy Beightol and James L. Sease, Jr.

Honorary pallbearers will be the City Council of Cumberland, members of the State Industrial Accident Commission, the Allegany-Garrett County Medical Association, directors of the Liberty Trust Company, Philip J. Arendes, George G. Young, Charles Z. Heskett, John S. E. Pardee, William E. McDonald, A. James Fitch and D. Lindley Sloan.

Died In Friend's Arms

Dr. Koon died in the arms of one of his oldest friends and associates, Clifton W. White, president and general manager of the Cumberland Fair Association, a few seconds after they boarded B. & O. Train No. 20 which leaves at 5:10 a. m. for Baltimore.

White was going to a meeting of the Legislative Council and Dr. Koon was making his regular trip to Baltimore to attend a meeting of the State Industrial Accident Commission. A little known fact in Dr. Koon's life here, was that he made this trip each Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. He got up in the morning at about 3:30 a. m. took the 5:10 a. m. train which arrives in Baltimore at 9:30 a. m. attended meetings and hearings of the commission all day, and then returned each evening, leaving Baltimore at 4:45 p. m. arriving here at 9 p. m.

Friends had often asked him "why don't you just stay in Baltimore?" He always replied, "I like to return to Cumberland. I'd rather be up here."

White said last night that as they got on the train, Dr. Koon reeled and started to fall. White caught him and eased him gently to the floor. Dr. Koon did not speak, and appeared to gasp and expire immediately, as his head rested in Cliff White's lap. White asked for water and other passengers in the car brought water at once. White bathed Dr. Koon's face and they worked over him about three minutes, but to no avail. Dr. Koon was carried by White and several other people to the platform of the train where he was placed on a stretcher and taken to Memorial hospital. He was pronounced dead there and Dr. H. V. Deming, county medical examiner said death was due to a heart ailment.

White was a member of the city council in 1928 and 1929 and served under Dr. Koon, mayor at that time, as city water and light commissioner. It was White and Dr. Koon who took the option for the city on the land where Koon Dam is now situated. The two men had been friends and associates for many years.

Was Tireless Worker

A tireless worker best known for his "love of humanity," Dr. Koon was a physician of the "old school" and never refused a call regardless of the time of day or night, the state of his health, the location of the residence of the ill person or the lack of prospect of receiving compensation.

He was always interested in public affairs, especially as they pertained to Cumberland and he sincerely regretted resigning as mayor to become a member of the State Tax Commission in 1939.

He enjoyed being mayor and leading Cumberland's important developments. His civic pride was unlimited and the views of others, voters included, never kept him from trying to do something he thought was for the good of the community. His efforts to secure a public park for Cumberland were rejected in a referendum, but Dr Koon thought the people needed a park and kept at it until his dream was fulfilled in Constitution Park.

Dr. Koon was known for a man of strong will power and as a fighter of unlimited courage who "got things done."

Planned Water System

As a member of the city council he actively supported plans for a new water system for Cumberland and throughout his life he time and time again recalled details of the proposed expansion of the water plant as first suggested. Although opposed to a great extent he insisted on the erection of a second dam, named Koon Dam in his honor.

Many credit Dr. Koon with advancing Cumberland from the "country town" to "small city" stage. Most of the streets were paved with cobble stones when he first took office, but Dr. Koon soon changed this. Making an extensive paving program possible was the establishment of the General Improvement Bond account and through this fund millions of dollars of work was done here.

Baltimore street became a smoothly paved thoroughfare; Greene street was extended and the subway under the Baltimore and Ohio tracks was erected; Virginia avenue was improved and a subway under the railroad built; Park street was cut through; the fire protection system of the city was expanded, and countless other improvements made.

Although Dr. Koon had no direct part in the building of the Cumberland Municipal Airport, as early as 1930 he began talking about the need for a suitable field for the city.

After he resigned as mayor he continued his interest in city affairs and at the time of his death was serving as chairman of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission.

He was active in Democratic political circles, a director of the Liberty Trust Company and a member of St. Paul's Lutheran church.

Reporters remember Dr. Koon as a colorful figure who was not afraid to talk and could always be depended upon to produce a fairly good story on an otherwise drab day. He was masterful as he presided at

FORMER MAYOR DIES — Funeral services for Dr. Thomas W. Koon, 76, member of the State Industrial Accident Commission, who served as mayor of Cumberland for 11 terms prior of 1939 and who died here of a heart ailment early yesterday morning, will be conducted Sunday afternoon at the home, 221 Baltimore avenue.

State And City Join In Mourning Dr. Koon's Death

Gov. O'Conor Says Former Mayor Was Faithful State Servant

The State of Maryland joined with Cumberland last night in mourning the death of Dr. Thomas W. Koon, former mayor and member of the State Industrial Accident Commission, who succumbed suddenly early yesterday morning.

Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor, in expressing condolences for the state, said the "death of Dr. Koon was a profound shock to me. He had been a faithful state servant throughout this administration, and he will be missed not only by the people of his own community, but throughout Maryland as well because of his excellent work on the State Industrial Accident Commission."

Former Judge D. Lindley Sloan said no physician in Cumberland ever did so much for so many people for so little. He recalled that in recent years friends who noticed Dr. Koon was failing asked him why he continued to get up at all hours of the night and travel long distances "to help people from whom he very often failed to collect anything." His friends thought he should start thinking of his own health, Judge Sloan said.

"When poor people are in pain they suffer just much as rich people," was Dr. Koon's reply.

Judge Sloan recalled that Dr. Koon once told him that as a boy he experienced want himself and that it made an indelible impression on him that lasted all his life.

Isaac Hirsch, a close personal friend of Dr. Koon and often called the father of Cumberland's commissioner form of government, said, "I feel his going deeply. He was a man not of super education, but he had what I call horse sense. He was one of the best mayors we ever had. He was always with me in my undertakings. He was councilman when the charter was put in and helped considerably. We'll miss him, there's no doubt of it. He was always ready to do anything to help Cumberland. I had dinner with him on Tuesday and he said he wanted to help me get a city manager for Cumberland."

Former Mayor George G. Young said he felt "he has lost a close personal friend. He said he gave unselfishly of his time to anyone requiring assistance, regardless of their financial condition, and expressed the opinion that Dr. Koon's services to Cumberland were outstanding.

Mayor Thomas S. Post declared, "We've lost a valuable citizen, one who put across his convictions and was liberal in them. He was a citizen who did a lot for Cumberland. I think the majority of the citizens realize he performed a lot of services for our city, and unselfishly too."

Former Mayor Thomas F. Conlon said, "Dr. Koon was one of the greatest citizens ever to serve the city of Cumberland. He made more progress for the city than all other mayors combined. He was more charitable, and certainly deserves credit for his endurance and the hardship he was put to in calls made to poor families in rural sections and within the city. His work is his monument."

MACEY'S CONDITION REMAINS CRITICAL

PARSONS, W. Va., Dec. 5 — Attaches at Tucker County Hospital reported late tonight that Joseph L. Macey, 48, Montrose miner who was accidentally shot yesterday while deer hunting at Clover Run, remains in critical condition.

Macey, who was shot in the back, is in an oxygen tent and received several more blood transfusions today. He is conscious, attaches reported.

Robert William Workman, 34, a coal miner of Carolina, near Fairmont, who fired the shot which struck Macey, according to officers, waived a preliminary hearing this morning before Justice of the Peace Lawrence Lipscomb and was held in the Tucker County Jail in default of $1,000 bond to await action of the grand jury December 17 on a charge of "malicious shooting" of Macey.

Detained By Police

City police said last night that they picked a man up who gave his name as Thomas Kenny, Fort Cumberland Hotel, but later released him until this morning when he will be questioned in the State's Attorney's office. A hotel clerk said Kenny registered there August 9, police reported.

Port Restaurant Proposal Made To Commission

CAA Opinion To Be Asked On Locating Building At Tie-down Apron

Officials of the Civil Aeronautics Administration will be contacted for approval of construction of a swall restaurant building by Cumberland Airways, Incorporated, on the concrete tie-down apron in front of the administration building at the Cumberland Municipal Airport.

This was decided last night at a meeting of the Municipal Airport Commission, after Mayor Thomas S. Post said he would reserve an opinion on advisability of the site pending word from the CAA.

John A. Chapman, airport manager for Cumberland Airways, Incorporated, which operates the field on lease from the city, asked the commission for approval of constructing a restaurant at the same location and using the same specifications as those previously proposed by Harry E. Flook, Jr., former Army pilot.

Negotiations with Flook halted after the commission decided that a cancellation clause should be provided in the event a major air line established service here and requested the restaurant concession.

Although other commission members voted to approve Chapman's proposal, subject to the approval of the Mayor and Council, Mayor Post said he would like to contact Thomas Bradford, district airport engineer in charge of the new CAA district office in Baltimore, before stating an opinion.

Chapman asked for speedy action on approving plans for the restaurant, which would be built and sub-let under the terms of Cumberland Airway's lease. He said he would like to see the building in operation by February or March, and added that the entire cost, including equipment, would amount to about $6,000.

Oscar Gurley acted as chairman in the absence of Edmund S. Burke, who is out of town. The commission accepted with regret the resignation of Charles Z. Heskett, who was appointed in October to the State Aviation Commission for a three-year term by Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor. Selection of Heskett's successor will be discussed at the next meeting.

Chapman said that more hangars are needed at the airport, stating that 21 planes are housed but that 14 are parked on the ground. He also said that work on installing a central switchboard for controlling runway lighting was completed yesterday.

Injunction Asked In Mt. Savage Property Claim

A bill of complaint was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Raymond Uhl, trustee against Gilbert S. Haus asking for mandatory injunction against Haus for the use of land allegedly owned by Anna B. Uhl and other heirs of the late G. Clinton Uhl.

Thomas Lohr Richards, attorney for Uhl, sets forth in the suit that Haus has constructed a garage building which projects 4 by 8 feet on to the Uhl property, which is situated on the south side of the county road which is actually the main business street through the town of Mt. Savage.

It is also claimed in the bill that Haus keeps dogs on the property and the court is asked to order him to remove the buildings and refrain from using the plaintiffs' land.

Chief Judge William A. Huster yesterday ordered the landlords of the property at 42-46 North Mechanic street to restore the heat to the premises occupied by Irvin L. Morton with the court giving the defendants until December 16 to show cause why a mandatory injunction should not be issued.

The court issued the order this morning when Morton petitioned for the injunction against Benjamin and Minnie Levin and Harry G. and Betty K. Stein, owners of the building.

Morton claims in his petition that the defendant landlords disconnected the heating pipes providing heat for his loan office, thereby making the premises cold and uncomfortable.

Morton stated that the pipes leading to his office on the first floor were formerly connected with a central heating plant operated by the landlords. The lack of heat in his room is "interfering with business" he said.

The petitioner stated that he leased his present premises April 30, 1946, for a two year period and pays $100 a month rent.

Morton said the landlords "unlawfully disconnected the heating pipes leading to his premises" on December 2.
